MURDER, SUICIDE SEEN IN TRAGEDY AT BALTIMORE

President of Western Maryland Believed To Have Been Slain in Locked Room by Associate.

LEADERS DIFFER ON ROAD POLICIES

Vice President Admits Shooting Shortly Before Death—Two Pistols Found Near Subordinate

BALTIMORE, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Behind the locked doors of his office, Maxwell C. Byers, president of the Western Maryland Railway Company, was shot and killed today by Dudley G. Gray, vice president in charge of traffic, who then fatally wounded himself.

At odds for months, the two men engaged in a quiet conversation shortly before noon, their voices heard by stenographers and other employees through a partition that separated the president's offices from a general office in a downtown building. Then came a burst of firing, and an employee who forced his way into the room found Byers dead and Gray dying. The latter succumbed after four and a half hours at the nearby Mercy hospital.

Coroner Otto M. Reinhardt gave a verdict of murder and suicide by Gray. He said no inquest would be held. Gray died with but two cryptic words of explanation. Asked by the clerk, first in the room, "Who did this?" he muttered: "That's obvious."

By his side was found a .32 caliber automatic pistol, with five bullets, unexploded. At the hospital a similar weapon, with one bullet, was taken from Gray's clothing.

Byers was shot eight times, once through the heart. Gray was shot twice, a bullet near his heart causing his death at Mercy hospital. Three minutes before the shooting started, three workers heard the shots. J. W. Stringer, a special representative of the railroad president, walked out of the president's office. He said the two started to converse quietly and seemed on the most amiable terms.

Byers, who was 52, became a prominent railroad figure in 1922 and again in 1925 when he adopted an uncompromising attitude toward striking shipmen and engineers of his road. He was a native of Pittsburgh and is survived by his widow and five sons.

Byers had been president of the Western Maryland, which derives much of its revenue as a coal carrier.

Big Griffin Mills Speed Up Production

GRiffin, Ga., Sept. 23.—(AP)—The fore-runner of better times in textile mills of this section was seen in the announcement that one-third of the looms in the Georgia Kincaid mills at Experiment and East Griffin would be put on full time basis this week. The speeding up of production—said by officials to be the result of increased orders received by the mills—will mean that at least 600 employees will work the full schedule of 55 hours a week for the first time in several months.

Other sections of the mills will continue to operate 30 to 40 hours a week for the present.

TREASON CHARGE FACED BY HITLER

Leader of Powerful Party Is Named by State's Attorney at Leipzig.

LEIPZIG, Germany, Sept. 23.—(UN)—The state's attorney at the trial of three fascists accused of treasonable plotting among the army corps in southern Germany announced today that proceedings on a charge of high treason were being instituted against Adolf Hitler, head of the powerful fascist party.

The announcement that Hitler was under prosecution on charges of high treason was made during the trial of three former army lieutenants, Hans Ludin, Richard Scherberger and Hans Wendt, who were arrested in southern Germany on charges of plotting to build up fascist "cells" in the field artillery regiment No. 5 of the army. Hitler's attorney, who is acting as counsel for the defense, proposed that the court examine Hitler on the question of whether his party aimed to use violence to carry out its avowed policy of overthrow of the government and abolition of the republican constitution.

At that point one of the government counsel intervened and said Hitler himself was under prosecution for high treason and State Attorney Nagel admitted the statement was true. Nagel would not give any additional details, but the court decided to call Hitler as a witness Thursday morning.

The trial, which was regarded as of political significance because the three defendants had laid the matter before R. P. Schulberg of the Paramount-Famous-Lasky studios at Hollywood.

There were four checks, according to the attorney, dated September 11. They were drawn on the Hollywood branch of the California bank. One of the checks was countersigned by "Daisy I. Duer," who said she was Miss Bow's secretary, James McKay, one of the resort owners, said.

Miss Bow's secretary is Miss Daisy Dressler.

Rogers and several other prominent Hollywood actors had been on location at Lake Tahoe for several weeks, not far from Calneva lodge. While certain forms of gambling are legal in Nevada, attorneys said checks given in outlawed games of chance could not be collected in court. Some card games, such as poker, where a percentage is not taken out by the house, and pari-mutuel betting on horse racing have been legalized. Dice, "21" and roulette games are officially barred but have gone un-suppressed.

NO LEGAL CLAIM. CLARA DECLARES. LOS ANGELES, Sept. 23.—Clara Bow, reported in Reno, Nev., dis-matches to have repudiated checks of $13,500, issued at a Lake Tahoe lodge gambling table, denied today anyone had any "rightful claims" to money from her.

"If anyone in the world," the red-headed film actress said, "feels he has a rightful claim against me for any money whatsoever, which I deny, I will gladly accept service of any legal documents, I always pay any honest debts promptly."

Miss Bow's statement was issued by her in answer to declarations of Reno attorneys for the lodge that she had given the checks only to have them returned by a Hollywood bank, marked "payment stopped."

Comptroller's Request Is Based on "Difference in Opinion" Over Result in Wilkinson County.

Taking the stand that he and his principal opponent, Adjutant General Homer C. Parker, are tied for the county unit nomination for the office of comptroller general, which he now holds, William B. Harrison Tuesday night made public a letter he has written to G. Ed Maddox, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, in which he formally requests a runover primary between himself and General Parker.

Action of the democratic executive committee in declaring Parker nominated for the office by virtue of his lead over Harrison in popular votes after election officials in Wilkinson county had submitted corrected returns placing the candidates in a tie for county unit votes also was protested Tuesday night by Harrison through his attorney, Pope F. Brock, in Macon.

Accompanying a copy of the letter to Mr. Maddox, Comptroller General Harrison issued a statement to the public in which he declares that inasmuch as it will be necessary to hold a runover primary in the gubernatorial contest it is his opinion and desire that the voters of Georgia be given an opportunity to eliminate any uncertainty and "determine the question of majority party expression" on October 1.

Wilkinson Action. Mr. Harrison's principal contention centers around the action that was taken in Wilkinson county, where E. M. Bullard at first was reported to have won over both Harrison and Parker. Later the county unit vote was thrown over to the adjutant general on a corrected return of final tabulation.

In both, his letter to Mr. Maddox and his statement to the voters, the comptroller emphasizes that his request for a runover is based entirely "in the interest of party harmony and with the hope of obviating further factional strife and discord."

To the state executive committee chairman Mr. Harrison declared that on the face of returns from the September 10 primary "neither of us (himself or Parker) has received a majority of the county unit votes."

$125,000 Heinz Suit Dismissed by Court

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 23.—(Special).—Suit filed by Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Heinz, of Atlanta, against Leeds & Lippencott Company, claiming $125,000 for jewelry stolen from the Heinz rooms in the Haddon Hall hotel, Atlantic City, on August 5, 1928, late today was dismissed in federal court here. A jury returned the verdict. "No cause for action."

Robert H. McCarter, counsel for the hotel company, contended that there was no proof, other than Mrs. Heinz's word, that she had the jewelry with her at Atlantic City, and also claimed that Mr. Heinz already had collected insurance on the lost articles.

The jewelry was stolen from her rooms while she was having breakfast on the morning of August 5, 1928, Mrs. Heinz declared.

Casino Charges Clara Bow Welched on Gambling Debts

RENO, Nev., Sept. 23.—The Reno Gazette said a young woman with red hair, introduced as Clara Bow, motion picture actress, played roulette and other games of chance for high stakes at a resort of Calneva, Nev., last week and gave checks aggregating $13,500 to cover her losses. The management of the resort said the checks on horse racing have been legalized. Dice, "21" and roulette games are officially barred but have gone un-suppressed.

U. S. BANKS OFFER CREDIT ON COTTON UP TO 75 PER CENT

Intermediate Credit Banks Will Assist Farmers in Carrying 1930 Crop Past Low Prices.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Financial assistance to cotton farmers to enable them to carry the 1930 crop until it can be marketed in an orderly manner was offered today by the federal intermediate credit banks.

In a letter sent to all banks and agricultural credit corporations in the cotton belt, the intermediate banks offered to make loans of nine cents a pound, or 75 per cent of the market value if the percentage was over nine cents, for middling white cotton of seven-eighths inch staple provided certain conditions were met.

The letters, mailed simultaneously from the intermediate banks of Columbia, New Orleans, Houston, Wichita, St. Louis and Louisville, said the institutions were "not only ready but eager to make available their facilities for financing farmers' notes secured by properly stored cotton, and thus aid in carrying it until it can be marketed in an orderly manner."

"Any state or national bank, trust company, savings bank or similar institution, and any properly organized credit corporation with adequate capital and competent management, which handles eligible agricultural paper and meets the requirements of the federal intermediate credit bank, may be granted the privilege of discounting with or obtaining loans from the federal intermediate credit bank."

"With such relations established, the federal intermediate credit bank will accept from such institutions, and carry, notes bearing interest rates permitted by the law and regulations and representing loans to cotton growers on the basis of nine cents per pound, or 75 per cent of the market value if such percentage exceeds nine cents, for middling white cotton of seven-eighths inch staple, such cotton being of tenderable grade and staple, properly stored and insured, and pledged as security for the loans."

"Cotton farmers who desire to avail themselves of this opportunity should apply to a banking institution or agricultural credit corporation in their locality which has or obtains the privilege of doing business with the federal intermediate credit bank."

Physicians in Doubt On Sligh's Chances

OKLAHOMA, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Harry K. Sligh, held in jail here, convicted in a murder plot to obtain insurance, who is suffering from poison-much said to have been self-inflicted, was still alive tonight. Officers state that he admits taking poison in an effort to destroy his life.

A small can containing a quantity of "if anyone in the world," the red-headed film actress said, "feels he has a rightful claim against me for any money whatsoever, which I deny, I will gladly accept service of any legal documents, I always pay any honest debts promptly."

Doctors tonight said that Sligh's recovery is doubtful.

Business Slump Apparently at Lowest Ebb, Declares General Motors Head at Conference.

Stout faith in the prompt recovery of business from the present low ebb was expressed Tuesday afternoon by Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors Corporation, at a luncheon in honor of himself and party at the Baltimore hotel during his business survey stopover in Atlanta.

"It's only a matter of time," Mr. Sloan declared. He compared business to an ill person, and pointed out that conditions now are convalescent and while it is not known whether complete recovery will come within a day, or a month, health is certain to return in the not far-distant future.

"Business seems to be at the bottom of the cycle now," Mr. Sloan said. "Let's adopt a different yardstick than we have been using and when we do, we will be able to do things more efficiently. Now is our opportunity to break old inefficient associations. If we meet our problems in this manner, we will make 1930 and the other years stronger."

Grant's Address. Announcement that General Motors is spending $2,000,000 on a motor accounting system to get facts on business and put hard headed business into dealerships was made in an address by R. H. Grant, vice president in charge of sales.

Mr. Sloan and Mr. Grant are accompanied on a tour of General Motors territories by Donaldson Brown, vice president and chairman of the finance committee, and John J. Schumann, president of the General Motors Acceptance Corporation. The party arrived in Atlanta Tuesday morning in Mr. Sloan's private car, and left Tuesday night for Birmingham en route to Memphis.

During the day, Mr. Sloan's party visited the Chevrolet plant and other General Motors interests here, conferring with Atlantans on business conditions. The highlight of the day's visit was the luncheon at the Billmore, where Mr. Sloan and Mr. Grant

PLANS COMPLETE FOR 82D REUNION

Plans for the national reunion of the veterans of the famous 82d division, which will be held here Friday, Saturday and Sunday, were completed at a final meeting of the local association of the organization Tuesday night on the roof of the Ansley hotel.

All details have been worked out for the entertainment and care of the thousands of veterans and their wives from all parts of the United States, and those in charge of arrangements expressed themselves as confident of the successful termination of the big rally.

Many out-of-town members already have arrived, and it was said that although the reunion officially will not begin until Friday morning, virtually every train entering the city is loaded with veterans.

FALSE REPORTS DEPRESS GRAIN

Rumor of Insolvency of Canadian Growers Pool Hits Shaky Market.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Already confounded by short-selling investigations and unmettable world competition by Russia, the sagging grain market today bent further under the weight of false reports from Canada.

Hastily denied and corrected, the reports, which alleged insolvency of the Canadian Growers' pool, nevertheless sent wheat, corn and every other grain tumbling to unimagined lows, unmatched in 24 years. September wheat reached bottom at 77-78 cents.

The incident added a third investigation to the market. The business conduct committee of the board of trade and the United States grain futures administration began immediate inquiry to find the authors of the forged messages. They were signed with the name of a prominent Winnipeg broker. A telegraph company joined the search.

The board of trade committee tomorrow will reopen its investigation of the Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde's charges that Russia abused grain hedging facilities here to depress wheat prices. The committee has received the specific information it requested Hyde to furnish.

Representative Hamilton Fish, who said he suspected a communist plot behind the short selling of wheat by Russia, will bring his congressional investigation to Chicago next Monday. Officials of the board of trade have promised to appear and several brokers, it is understood, will be subpoenaed.

George Von Elm IS NEXT TO JONES WITH 143 SCORE

Watts Gunn and Sweetser Are Among 6 Forced To Play Off Today for Last Five Places.

DARKNESS HALTS TITANIC BATTLE

Many Stars Fall by Wayside—11 Tie for 8 Positions—Voigt and Goodman Survive.

BY ED DANFORTH. MERION CRICKET CLUB, ARDMORE, Pa., Sept. 23.—Sunday at Merion revealed the figure of Bobby Jones, colossus of golf, besting the flower of American amateurs, winner of the low medal score in the qualifying round, dominant even in this preliminary struggle.

Bobby, jostled and engulfed by a gallery of record proportions, spent a harrowing three hours and a half accumulating 73 strokes, three over par, to add to his 69 of Monday. The 142 equalled the previous record for the national amateur held jointly by D. Clark Corkran and Jones, himself. It was one stroke better than George Von Elm, the man from out west, could do, and three strokes ahead of the best of the others. It was the sixth time Jones has either won or tied for the medal.

Bob was fagged out from the irksome delays between shots on his endless round and as soon as he could dress went to his downtown hotel for as much rest as he could get before plunging into match play Wednesday.

Play-off Early Today. By the pairings made long after dark and still incomplete due to a spectacular 11-man play-off at dusk, Bobby plays his 15-hole match starting at 10 o'clock daylight saving time, with C. Ross Summerville, the Canadian champion. If Bob wins his second round match will be played Wednesday afternoon with the winner of the Ellis Knowles-F. G. Hoblitzel match. Neither of these two latter players is regarded with apprehension by those who would like to see Bobby win the last stronghold of 1930 golf.

Bye brought in his score of 142 in the afternoon, and scored 155 and still playing. It was posted just ahead of Von Elm's 143. Then, with none on the horizon who might displace Jones, medalist, the crowd settled down to wait for the others to finish and see the list of 32 qualifiers completed.

Harrison B. Johnston, the defending champion had scored 155 and soon this figure was pushed out of the tournament by late finishers with

Rites for Henry Banks Will Be Held Today

Last tribute to Henry Banks, 53, of 1136 Virginia avenue, well-known insurance man, who died suddenly Monday afternoon at Rome, will be paid at 11 o'clock this morning at LaGrange, Mr. Banks' birthplace and former home. Services will be conducted at the graveside in Hill View cemetery by the Rev. Dr. Ellis, pastor of the First Methodist church, of La-Grange. Arrangements are in charge of Atty & Lowndes. Mr. Banks collapsed in a Rome drugstore at about 6:30 o'clock Monday and died a few minutes later in an ambulance while en route to a hospital. He was connected with the Dixie Life & Accident Insurance Co. and had been a resident of Atlanta the last 15 years.

BUSINESS GAIN SEEN BY G. M. C. HEAD

addressed General Motors dealers and bankers. Mr. Sloan made no effort to ignore the much-talked-of depression, but faced the facts squarely and offered his views on how best to meet the situation.

"Granted that things are bad now, let us have confidence in the future," he declared. "It is my opinion that we have reached the bottom of the cycle. Do not be discouraged if recovery takes longer than you expect. There should be no hesitancy in carrying through, and now is the time to capitalize so that you will get more out of the future than you otherwise would."

Workers Broadened.

"There is no uncertainty of the great, broad future of the industry. Men have always wanted to go from one place to another, and by going about they have become broadened. The world is getting smaller through rapid transportation and communication, but there still is nothing to equal personal contact—the talking over of things in seeking information. That is why we are making this trip. And, in giving us information, never mind the good things—tell us the bad."

"All recognize that we are going through bad times or a business depression. There are two ways of dealing with it: either ignore it or recognize it. There is no question we are going through a depression, and that the economic or industrial world is upset. We were told that the business cycle had been eliminated by knowledge, but we have found out this is not so."

"We do not know the causes of depression. They probably are many, and there is probably no one that dominates. The question is, 'when is it going to turn?' It is only a question of time. Intelligent help is needed. Inefficiency and lack of economy creep in during times of prosperity, and we form a yardstick. What we should do is to adopt a different yardstick."

Consumer Credit.

An interesting problem to study, according to Mr. Sloan, is the General Motors Acceptance Corporation, for this firm deals with consumer credit, "an important influence in prosperity." By consumer credit, he pointed out, the industry is able to attack reservoirs of purchasing that it did not have before.

"Repossessing and losses have increased, but experience now compares favorably with three or four years ago," Mr. Sloan said. "Installment selling or consumer credit, if conducted on a sound basis, is a thoroughly sound thing," he declared.

Mr. Grant expressed the opinion that there is no urgent problem in design or production, but "in distribution there is a more acute problem than in the other ends of the industry. Survey has shown that too many dealers are not making returns on invested goods, and this must be stopped before there becomes too much misery, for, looking at it from a selfish standpoint, what brings the dealer misery also brings misery to the industry, which is a dynamic, spectacular and dramatic one." Mr. Grant, who, with a "let me go back to the Chevrolet days," doffed his coat to make his address. Mr. Grant's popularity from the days when he was with Chevrolet, was emphasized by which greeted the rally.

Used Car Problem.

"Once we were bothered by the alignment of cars," Mr. Grant said. "Then we developed the used car market, and the second hand car market began to get crowded and became a problem we have got to lick. The new car business today is pretty well controlled by the movement of used goods. To overcome conditions, we cannot look to the patent medicine of increased volume, but we want a large volume where the dealer has a return on invested capital. That's why we have put in the accounting system. A General Motors Corporation is willing to adapt its policies to your requirements," he told the dealers, "so as to get your expenses under gross income. If you can do this, there is no reason we cannot keep the industry viable. The accounting system movement was made so the distributing end of the business will make a proper return in normal years," he said. "We want to retain the bankers' support. We want dealers to have a set of accounts that will entitle them to bank credit, and we want bankers to use discrimination as to help us keep distribution in a viable way, so we can cash in on future prosperity that is sure to come."

PLANS COMPLETED FOR 82ND REUNION

is bringing former soldiers eager for the occasion.

Tuesday night's meeting was given over to perfection of all "loose end" matters in the entertainment and sheltering of the visitors, together with announcement of the program of social activities for wives and other women relatives of veterans, and organization of several railroad station and central details to look after transportation facilities for the visitors.

Entertainment Planned.

As announced, the women visitors Friday will be tendered a round of sightseeing, a dinner and a theater party. Beginning at 1 p. m. they will start out on the round of entertainment, with a "scenic drive" slated to head the afternoon program. At 4 o'clock they will visit United States Base Hospital No. 48 and dine at the Piedmont hotel at 6 o'clock. A party at the Fox theater at 8:30 o'clock will wind up the first day's program.

On Saturday a luncheon at the Brookhaven Country Club will be given them at 1 o'clock by the local 82nd Division Association auxiliary. At 4 o'clock the Atlanta Woman's Club will entertain them at tea, and at 9 o'clock Saturday night a dance at the 34th Division hotel will be staged. On Sunday they will join with the veterans in paying tribute to the memory of the dead in special exercises at the Fox theater.

For the male attendants, Friday will be given over to registration and "get-together" activities for the most part. Saturday thousands of veterans, together with civic organizations, municipal officials and numerous bands, will form a parade which will march through the center of the downtown area beginning at 10:30 o'clock. In the afternoon a big old-fashioned barbecue will be given at Camp Gordon, and at 9 o'clock Saturday night the veterans will assemble at the Biltmore dance.

Officers, men and nurses of the Emory unit known during the World War as Base Hospital 43, were invited Tuesday to attend the barbecue and memorial as guests of the division. While Base Hospital 43 was not a part of the division during the war, it served the organization at Camp Gordon in 1918. Dr. Frank K. Boland, well-known Atlanta surgeon, was commanding officer of this unit at Camp Gordon and overseas. All members of the Emory unit are requested to meet at Davis-Eischer sanitarium at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon to attend the Fox theater memorial exercises. One of the outstanding events of the entire reunion, it was pointed out Tuesday night by Scott Candler, president of the local association, will be the memorial exercises Sunday afternoon, which, it is said, will be the most impressive ever held in Atlanta. Sections of seats will be reserved for veterans attending the reunion but the public at large is invited to attend.

Senator Walter F. George and Congressman Lamar Jeffers, of Alabama, will be the principal speakers during the ceremonies. Congressman Jeffers was a major in the division, was several times wounded and received several decorations for bravery in action. Father A. F. Gerhard, of Milwaukee, Catholic chaplain of the 328th infantry, also will take part in the program. He was one of the "fighting parsons" of the A. E. F., who not only worked with the men behind the lines but went forward with them into active sectors. The memorial services will be featured with a notable vocal program, as well as orchestration under the direction of Enrico Leide.

GERMAN SPIES ACCUSED OF SPREADING DISEASE

Sensational Charges Made at Hearings on War Activities.

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Sept. 23.—(P)—Robert Bonyne, commissioner for the United States in the German-American mixed claims tribunal, charged today that German agents in the United States before America's entry into the war engaged not only in arson and similar crimes but in the spreading of disease germs, imperiling human life.

The commissioner, pressing American claims for damages resulting from alleged acts of alien operators, spent the forenoon rebutting contentions of German witnesses. The defense contended that Captain Winsch was not engaged in sabotage work during the time he was in Baltimore. Bonyne produced exactly contrary evidence from a negro named Felton.

Felton's evidence, Bonyne declared, was that he had been engaged with other negroes by Winsch, first to distribute circulars to induce stevedores to strike and then to set fire to supplies destined for Europe, using tubes filled with acid, and furthermore to spread disease among horses and mules collected for shipment to Europe at the embarkation depots of Norfolk, Newport News and New York. For this purpose Bonyne asserted the evidence showed that the German agents supplied anthrax germs, thereby endangering the life of the American population. Captain Winsch employed 10 or 12 men in these activities, Bonyne said.

The commissioner instanced the case of another negro who he said was sent to Hopewell, Va., to blow up a DuPont factory, but weakened on the job, not daring to set the fire.

Captain Winsch has confessed, Bonyne told the court, to having been in Newport News and New York in February, 1916, but denied having co-operated with German agent, Hermann, for the setting of fires in munition plants.

Bonyne declared Captain Winsch had conferred with the German secret agent, Captain von Rintelen, who came from the German staff with $500,000 "to burn and destroy on all sides."

The American insisted that Germany's contention that sabotage had been committed only on ships and not on land was abundantly refuted by the facts.

In ending his argument he declared that it had been proved beyond question that the fire at the Kingsland (N. J.) munitions plant was caused by German agents.

Tomorrow the German representative will begin argument for his country.

COAL MINE CLOSED FOLLOWING "BATTLE"

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., Sept. 23.—(P)—Empire mine No. 6 was closed down today after a battle between snipers and employees yesterday. Bert Baker, 50-year-old former employee of the mine, was arrested.

I. M. Lucas, mine superintendent, said this morning that he was ready to continue operations if he could obtain workers, but expressed the opinion that the miners feared to work.

Baker was recognized by besieged miners as one of an attacking band that fired at the mine 100 or more times yesterday. His body was fixed at $1,500. Witnesses appeared today before the grand jury.

sioners at the concluding session of the annual convention in Louisville, Ky., Tuesday. An added compliment to the Georgia official was the selection of Atlanta as the city in which the 1931 session of the southern group will be held.

Mrs. deLaparelle has been with the Georgia securities commission since it was created by the legislature in 1929 and has been its secretary since 1922. She has been secretary of the southern group, comprising commissioners of 14 southeastern states prior to her election to the first vice presidency in 1929.

POLLARD TO PASS UP CAROLINA OCCASION

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 23.—(P)—Governor Pollard will not attend the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the battle of King's Mountain at King's Mountain, N. C., on October 7, 8, and 9, he said today, on account of a conflict with the visit of the French fliers, Coste and Bellonte, to Richmond, October 8.

The governor said he would ask

Doctor To Return To China To Fight Bubonic Plague

NORTHFIELD, Minn., Sept. 23.—(P)—Dr. Percy T. Watson will respond to the plea of Chinese authorities to return to China to fight an outbreak of the bubonic plague, he announced today.

He said he would leave in about three weeks for Shensi and Shansi provinces of northern China. The trip will take about three weeks.

His services, sought from the American board of commissioners for foreign missions at Boston, will center upon an effort to prevent the spread of the plague in an area 140 miles northwest of Fengchow. Because of poor transportation facilities, the trip to the affected region will require four days from Fengchow.

Several years ago the Chinese government asked Dr. Watson to go into Mongolia to combat the plague, but he felt then that his work was more effective while near the Fengchow headquarters where serums were available. The bubonic plague, according to the doctor, originates among rats and is transmitted to humans by the rat flea. It is about 96 per cent fatal, and no attempt is made to cure persons affected. He will use vaccination in his campaign to restrict the dissemination of the disease.

Dr. Watson's wife and two children live here. He will return alone to China.

South Carolina G.O.P. Retains 'Boss' Tolbert

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 23.—(P)—Joseph W. Tolbert, "boss" of the republican party in South Carolina for years, was retained in the saddle for another four years today by the republican state convention which overwhelmingly re-elected him as its state chairman. Tolbert defeated A. E. Blythe, of Orangeburg, for the office by a vote of 102 to 15.

Bad Weather Delays Coste and Bellonte

DENVER, Sept. 23.—(P)—The Question Mark, French trans-Atlantic plane, carrying Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, returned to the Denver municipal airport at 10:50 a. m., mountain standard time.

The plane had started for Salt Lake City at 8:20 a. m. Coste said the weather over the continental divide was so rough he was forced back. He said he would not attempt to take off for Salt Lake City again until tomorrow morning.

It was the first hitch in the good-will tour of the United States which Coste and his copilot, Maurice Bellonte, started at New York September 15 after their Paris-New York-Dallas flight.

Lieutenant Governor James H. Price to represent him. He has already appointed a large delegation of Virginians from many sections of the state.

MANCHURIAN 'PEACE' TROOPS TAKE PEIPING

Defeated Forces Retreating Toward Famine-Stricken
Regions of Shansi.

PEIPING, China, Sept. 23.—(P)—Manchurian troops which took control of this city today displayed not only bayonets but also posters describing their invasion as being in the interest of peace.

The posters say the country cannot afford a continuation of civil war and declare the aim of the soldiers is simply mediation.

General Feng Yu-Hsiang, whose soldiers have borne the brunt of the fighting, faces an uncertain fate. However, it appears certain that his soldiers have ahead of them a march of retreat to the famine-stricken regions of Shansi and Kiang provinces.

While three battalions of Manchurians occupy the city, a large reserve force was stationed in the suburbs. Everything went along so smoothly that observers wondered whether General Chang Hsueh-Liang was really so hostile to the northern combination as his Nanking spokesman had asserted.

Lennox Simpson, customs commissioner at Tientsin continued to carry on his work and the Nanking nominee, Mr. Grierson, declared he would wait to take over the work as soon as transfer of control of the city had been completed. Simpson declared in an interview he would hand over the customs only to the official who can produce proper credentials.

"Under no circumstances," Simpson declared, "can we recognize anyone coming direct from Nanking. The French concession authorities have consented to render protection to prevent forcible seizure. I have sent delegates to Mukden to give a report on conditions to Marshal Chang and asking for instructions. We are anxious that Mukden send a delegate to take over the customs. I do not desire to try to hold this position but I hope the new staff will be allowed to remain."

Better Cotton Price Or No Sale--Creekmore

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(P)—E. F. Creekmore, president of the Cotton Stabilization Corporation, said tonight the organization would maintain its present holdings of 1,300,000 bales throughout the present cotton season unless the price advances to or above the cost of purchase.

His statement, issued through the federal farm board, follows: "The present holdings of the Cotton Stabilization Corporation amounting to about 1,300,000 bales will be maintained throughout the present cotton season ending July 31, 1931, unless the price in the meantime advances to or above the purchase price. "If any part of these holdings is sold in order to meet special requirements of mills or for other sufficient reasons, the quantity thus sold will be replaced immediately by the purchase of an equal number of bales so that the total holdings will remain unchanged." The corporation has headquarters in New Orleans.

Cities' Plant Life Declared Doomed

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—(P)—Eventual death of all plant life in America's big cities unless smoke and exhaust fumes are curbed was predicted Monday by Dr. Duncan Starr Johnson, director of the botanical garden at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore.

Dr. and Mrs. Johnson arrived on the liner Penland from an extensive European tour. He made a study of botanical gardens abroad and brought back a collection of heather from the Isle of Wight.

Dr. Johnson said the botanical garden in London had been moved 500 miles southward to escape the deadly city air. The same thing, he said, would have to be done with the New York botanical garden in the Bronx if the railroads do not soon control the smoke of passing locomotives. Other harmful factors, he said, were factory smoke and gas from automobile exhausts.

Philadelphia Ousts Jack 'Legs' Diamond

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23.—(P)—Jack (Legs) Diamond, New York gangster, who was deported from Germany and arrived here yesterday on the steamer Hannover, was today ordered to leave the city by the police.

Diamond was arrested by the Philadelphia police yesterday as a suspicious character and released on bail late last night for his appearance at a hearing today before a police magistrate, who gave him an hour to leave.

The New York gangster was the center of interest to several dozen detectives who crowded into the room and constantly moved about getting a good look at his face from every angle. They wanted to know "Legs" should they see him again on his next visit to town.

Bankers Will Hear President at Night

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(P)—President Hoover is to make his address before the American Bankers' Association in Cleveland, October 2, at night instead of in the afternoon as tentatively arranged.

Conferences at the White House, during which the schedule for the president's four speeches next month were finally worked out, brought an agreement between the White House and the Cleveland hosts for the president to make the address in the evening.

Mr. Hoover will leave October 1 and attend the world's series game in Philadelphia. He plans to remain there until that night before departing for Cleveland.

ANSLINGER IS NAMED DRUG COMMISSIONER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(P)—Harry J. Anslinger, acting commissioner of narcotics, today was appointed commissioner by President Hoover and will head the newly created bureau of narcotics in the treasury.

He has been in the government service for many years. For two years he was chief of the division of the prohibition bureau which investigated liquor violations arising in foreign countries. He later served as acting chief of the prohibition bureau's narcotic division.

The new bureau of narcotics was established by congress last spring.

Louisiana Standard Hikes Price 5 Cents

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 23.—(P)—The Standard Oil Company of Louisiana tonight announced that effective tomorrow the price of gasoline at their stations here would be increased five cents per gallon. The new price locally will be 18 1-2 cents, including the state tax with one cent discount allowed for cash.

Indications tonight were that the Standard's principal competitors would take steps to meet the increase. In explaining the price hike officials of the Standard in the published statement said that "energetic competition" had brought about prices "too low to yield any return on the necessary investment."

The statement said that the company would make an adjustment to "normal and fair market prices at all points where we are doing business."

OTHER FIRMS FOLLOW SUIT. CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 23.—(P)—Following the lead of the Standard Oil Company of Louisiana, other companies announced tonight that gasoline prices will be increased one and one-half cents per gallon Wednesday morning, with a discount of one cent for cash. Prices have been 20 cents a gallon, with high test brands selling at 22 cents. The raise means 21 1-2 cents for ordinary gasoline on credit and 20 1-2 cents cash, and high test 24 1-2 cents on credit and 23 1-2 cash.

Eggs may look alike

The freshest eggs can't be picked just by looking at them. You want to know more about them than just the appearance of their shells.

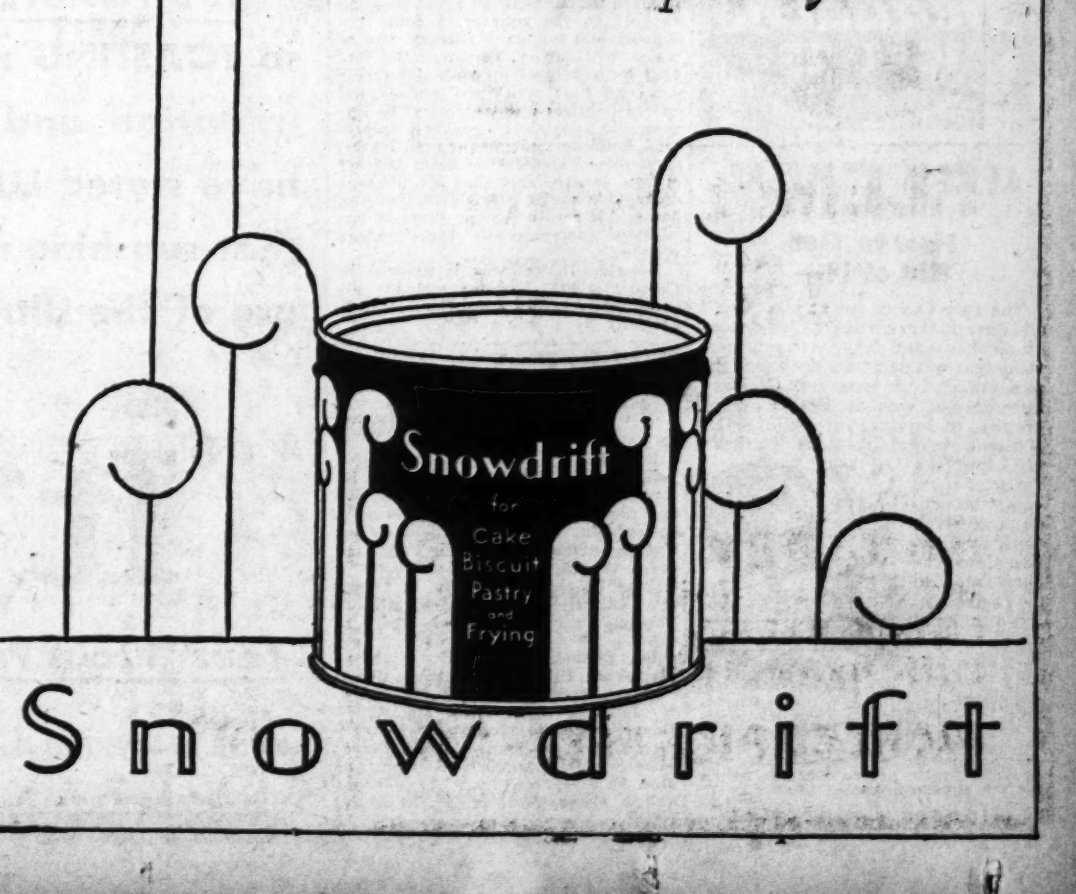

Neither can you judge shortening just by looking at it. Two things called shortening may resemble each other as much as powdered sugar and corn-starch, and be almost as different in quality and in results when you cook with them.

Shortenings are made differently. The Wesson Oil people are proud of Snowdrift. They feel that there are enough good cooks who use pure milk, fresh eggs and clean good-quality flour to warrant making an extra-fine, good-to-eat shortening.

Snowdrift is made from a selected oil as fine as a choice salad oil, free from all animal fats, and just as pure and fresh and sweet as the other ingredients you use in your nice cakes, biscuits and pastries. Snowdrift is creamed and sealed in an air-tight can to bring all its purity and goodness to your table. Nothing can touch it to mar its goodness—not even air. When you break open the sealed can, yours are the first hands to touch it.

The nice thing about Snowdrift is that it now costs very, very little more than ordinary shortenings. Your grocer will tell you that Snowdrift is at its lowest price in many years. When you buy it and use it . . . white and appetizing, and already creamed . . . it's a pleasure to know that Snowdrift is every bit as good and pure as it looks.

Snowdrift is at its lowest price in years.

Be Ready to Hear the World's Series With a New 1931 CROSLLEY RADIO

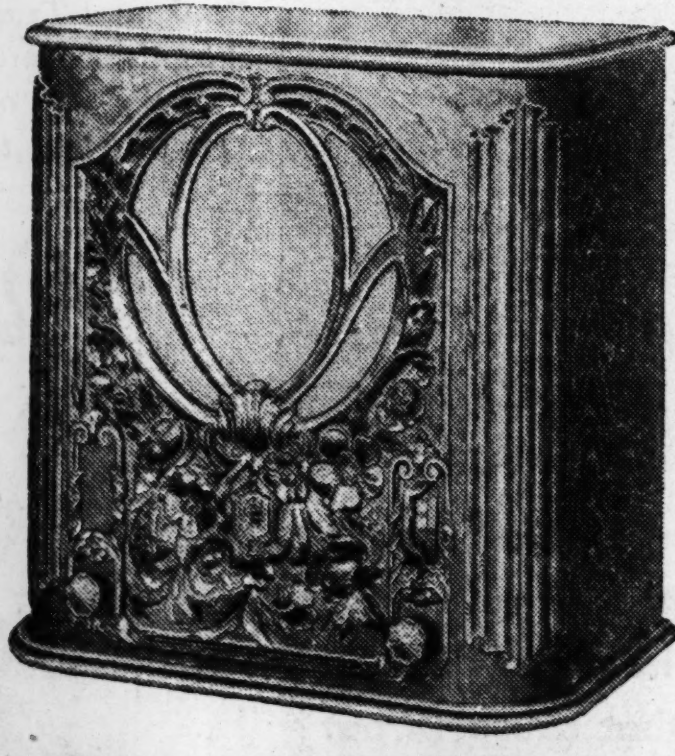

Finer Performance and Unsurpassed Beauty at a Lower Price

The new 1931 series Crosley Radios offers radio performance and beauty in the most complete and diversified group of models ever shown the American public. There is a model to meet the decorative ideals of any room or home, and the variety to choose from affords a selection within the price range of any pocketbook.

The "PAL"

Serves many useful purposes in the home—as an end, bedside, or occasional table. Set out in the room as a magazine stand. The newest type Crosley electro-magnetic power speaker is incorporated. The PAL uses three Screen Grid tubes and is indeed an astonishing value at an amazingly low price.

The "BUDDY"

Here is something entirely new in radio—a compact, efficient "midsize" all-electric radio, complete with speaker and tiny console—the Crosley New Buddy. This mantel-clock, or table-type radio is only 15" high, 15 1/2" wide and 9 1/2" deep and is so light in weight and small in size it can be easily carried from place to place.

RUSSELL IN 'HOT SPOT' CHARGED BY CARSWELL

Opponent Says He Dares Not Tell People How He Expects To Pay Back Due Debts.

McRAE, Ga., Sept. 23.—(Special.)—George H. Carswell, speaking here tonight, said the people of the state were entitled to a categorical answer from Richard B. Russell, Jr., as to whether or not he expected to provide money for the payment of the state debts by an increase in the gasoline tax, by a revival of the war-time "nuisance tax" or by the outright sale of the Western & Atlantic railroad.

"Mr. Russell is on a hot spot," said Carswell. "He dare not tell the people of the state how he expects to provide the money to pay the debt created by the 1927 appropriations bill, for which he cast the deciding vote. He dare not say he does not intend to pay the debt, in the altogether improbable event of his election. He has the courage to say he will provide this money by increasing the present tax on gasoline or by a revival of the old, war-time 'nuisance' tax, for which he dare say he expects to sell the Western & Atlantic railroad but contents himself with vague references to 'useless' railroad property."

Question "Ridiculous."
"I ask you in all fairness, whoever heard of 'useless' property being sold for $5,000,000? It is ridiculous on the face of it. If Mr. Russell proposes to sell even 'useless' state property, how does he expect to get around the constitutional provision that the proceeds from the sale of any state property shall be devoted to the retirement of the bonded indebtedness of the state? A little thing like a violation of the constitution of Georgia may not bother Mr. Russell."

"The present plight of the schools and school teachers, the Confederate veterans, the patients in the asylum at Milledgeville, the sanatorium at Alto, the university system and the other state institutions, do not seem to bother Mr. Russell, although he is primarily responsible for the fact that they cannot get the money to which they are entitled and which has been promised them. If he can disregard an obligation of that kind, it is entirely reasonable to assume he would not allow a little thing like the constitution of Georgia to stop him."

"Letter Ignored."
"Mr. Russell claims to be conducting a 'clean' campaign. I wrote him an open letter the other day asking him to say what he had paid Atlanta Life, a publication that appears with regularity during campaigns and spasmodically at other times, for a story to the effect that I had a $100,000 campaign fund. I asked him to produce one vestige of evidence that my campaign was being influenced in any way by any special interests. But he paid no more attention to it than he has to the demands of those who supported him in the first primary, that he tell them how he proposed to pay this state debt. As I said in the beginning, he is on a hot spot. His own supporters are commencing to ply him with questions that he dare not answer."

YOU'LL NEVER KNOW WHAT YOU'RE MISSING

It's one thing to say we'll do a thing—it's quite another thing to do it. Changing tooth pastes, for example. Rivers Makes Attack On 'Russell Faction'

MADISON, Ga., Sept. 23.—(Special.)—Senator E. D. Rivers, speaking here tonight, said that "young Dick Russell continues to rant over the state, bragging of the fact that he is able to outdo all the politicians and to eliminate the politicians from the state government."

Rivers said accounts of Russell's speech at Milledgeville Monday quoted him as saying "as long as factional fighting continues, the big interests can thrive by pitting one faction against the other."

"If this be true," the speaker said, "and the big interests of the state grow fat on these political campaigns by having one crowd fighting the other, then the Russell family has greatly contributed to the prosperity and the thriving of the big interests. There is not a family in Georgia which has contributed one-tenth as much to the political activities of the state as has the Russell family."

"Dick Russell and John Holder spread the report immediately after September 10 that I had sold out to George Carswell and traded off my friends and immediately began a vicious campaign designed to destroy my character and my standing with my friends over the state. They have carried on the most abominable and pernicious campaign that I have ever witnessed in the state of Georgia. They have painted me as black and as contemptible as the most despicable imp of Satan. There has been no possible rumor which they could not circulate with the purpose of creating a false impression in the minds of my friends over the state in regard to my character."

"For several years I have taken an open and public stand upon public questions and in my two campaigns for governor I have gone into every community of Georgia and made more than 300 speeches from the stump face to face with the people of Georgia. The people of Georgia know me and have had every opportunity to know me personally and politically. I would not stoop to defend myself against these charges because they are so utterly ridiculous, but I bring these facts to the attention of the people to show the desperate straits of the Holder-Russell combination in this campaign. They have resorted to this sort of tactics because they realize a tide of sentiment is now swinging rapidly toward the election of George H. Carswell as governor of this state on the 1st of October."

Rivers Gives Reasons For Aiding Carswell

JONESBORO, Ga., Sept. 23.—(Special.)—Senator E. D. Rivers, speaking here tonight in support of the Carswell candidacy for governor, made a strong plea for Mr. Carswell's election.

Senator Rivers said, in part: "I am not here to tell anyone how to vote. I am here for the purpose of telling you why I am for George Carswell for governor. If you will read once more the platform on which I made my own race in 1928 and again this year, and then read the platform of principles upon which Mr. Carswell is now running, you will find that I have abandoned no principle. After I was eliminated in the first primary, Richard B. Russell, Jr., solicited my support in the run-off. I could not support him for many reasons, two of which will suffice. One was the fact that he had lined up with John Holder, and that gentlemen and myself parted political company when he forsok the party-voters' principle of road building and put the road department some $9,000,000 in debt. Another reason was the fact that Mr. Russell, during his entire legislative career, has to his credit not one piece of legislation favorable to the common schools."

Senator Rivers was introduced by Colonel A. O. Kemper and his address was received more than enthusiastically by a fair audience.

Dr. J. F. Bonnell Buried at Oxford

Last tribute to Dr. John F. Bonnell, 79, of 106 North avenue, N. Elam F. Dempsey. Interment was in the Oxford cemetery, with Awtry & Lowndes in charge.

RUSSELL SEES EFFORTS TO BECLOUD ISSUES

Urges Voters Not To Be Misled by "Mass of Irrelevancies."

SYLVESTER, Ga., Sept. 23.—(Special.)—Efforts to "becloud the true issues" of the gubernatorial campaign by a "mass of irrelevancies" his opponents seek to bring in, were charged by Richard B. Russell, Jr., in an address here Tuesday.

"All of the campaign thunder," said Mr. Russell, "cannot lessen the need for a reorganized and simplified governmental structure. Useless political jobs must be abolished. The taxpayers of Georgia should not be called upon to maintain jobs which are without benefit to the state, but which are used every two years in efforts to keep some factional leader in power."

"The election of Mr. Carswell would bring no change in the policies that have been maintained during the last four years. He would be influenced by the same factional leaders and receive the same selfish advice that has been given in the past. The people realize that if Georgia is to progress we must have an administration of harmony and accord between the governor's office and the general assembly, devoted to the welfare of all the people."

"Unjust to Taxpayers."
"It is unjust to the taxpayers of Georgia that they should be called upon to assist in financing the Carswell-Rivers-Hardman campaign for continuance of power in Georgia. The use of state-paid employees by Mr. Carswell in carrying on his campaign is only one of the results of placing power in the hands of factions that have no interest in the welfare of the taxpayers, but only a desire to serve their own purposes. The people of Georgia resent, as they should, the use of their money, paid into the state treasury to carry on the business of the state, in the payment of T. S. Mason and Stiles Martin to devote their entire time at Carswell campaign headquarters at the Piedmont hotel in Atlanta."

"The people believe Mr. Carswell should separate his campaigning for governor from his duties as secretary of state, and they are wondering how Mr. Carswell can conceive it to be within his official duties to use a state-owned automobile with a state-paid driver in filling his speaking engagements in his campaign for governor. The expenses of the office of secretary of state and the motor vehicle commissioner were $1,800 more in the month of August this year than in the month of August last year. It is only reasonable to suppose that this increase is either the result of neglect of duty by the secretary of state, Mr. Carswell, and some of his state-paid employees, or has been brought about by the creation of additional political jobs to be given out by Mr. Carswell to obtain political influence in this race."

"His campaign manager is a state-paid judge of the superior court. So it may well be said that a sizeable part of Mr. Carswell's campaign organization have been paid for their services during this campaign with the tax money of our citizens."

"If this money had been left in the treasury and Mr. Carswell had run his campaign from his personal funds, as I have mine, at least this much more money would have been available to discharge some of the debts of the state."

"It is not only unjust to the people of Georgia, but it is unfair to me in this race. I cannot command the use of a state-owned automobile or the services of state-paid employees. Neither have I charge of a department of state, with the right to employ an almost unlimited number of influential politicians."

"I am making this race with the aid of my friends and those people in Georgia who believe in the principles announced by me at the time I entered this gubernatorial campaign. These people know that I belong to no political clique, ring or faction, and know that every effort will be put forth by me, as governor of Georgia, to abolish these numerous offices, created and paid for by the taxpayers of Georgia, and used to further the candidacy of some member of a political faction."

"The enthusiastic support I am receiving from a majority of the next house and senate is a guarantee that we will be successful in carrying out these policies."

Matthews Leads.
ALLAHABAD, India, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Captain F. R. Matthews, Britisher attempting to fly in record time from England to Australia, arrived here today, a full day ahead of the time set by Bert Hinkler two years ago.

Services for J. Clyde Wallace, 46, of 646 Moreland avenue, N. E., former assistant treasurer of the Atlanta Trust Company, who died suddenly Monday afternoon in a local hospital, were held at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the chapel of Harry G. Poole with the Rev. W. C. Ivey, of Rutledge, Ga., officiating. Interment was in West View cemetery.

Born in Rutledge, Mr. Wallace spent the greater part of his life in Atlanta. He was a member of the Yarnab temple, and attended services at the Druid Hills Methodist church. Surviving him are his widow, a stepdaughter, Miss Flora May Tumlins; two stepsons, Thomas and Reuben Tumlins of New York; his mother, Mrs. W. P. Wallace; two sisters, Miss Laddie Sue Wallace and Miss Lottin Lou Wallace; and six brothers, Roy, Paul, Harold and Alva Wallace, all of Rutledge; Earl Wallace, of Macon, and Leonard Wallace, of Madison.

IMPORTANT NOTICE
Effective with last train Friday, September 26th, trains Nos. 1 and 4, operating between Toconoco and Elberton will be discontinued. Trains Nos. 2 and 3, operating between same points, will continue in operation on same schedule as at present.

Consistent with its policy of laying the facts before the public, The American Tobacco Company has invited General Samuel McRoberts to review the reports of the distinguished men who have witnessed LUCKY STRIKE'S famous Toasting Process. The following is the statement of General McRoberts:

"MAKING FRIENDS AND HOLDING THEM
—is the secret of success in business"

Says

GENERAL

SAMUEL McROBERTS

Chairman of the Board, Chatham Phenix National Bank and Trust Company

Director, Armour & Co., American Sugar Refining Co., National Surety Co., Kansas City-Southern Railway; Brig. General, A. E. F.

"Making friends and holding them, by a friendly up-to-date usefulness, is the secret of success in business. This axiom has been the guiding force in the progress of the Chatham Phenix National Bank and Trust Company. And it is obviously the guiding force in your business—as evidenced by your use of the Ultra Violet Ray in the 'Toasting' of the LUCKY STRIKE tobaccos."

LUCKY STRIKE — the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop — THEN — "IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so TOASTING removes harmful irritants that cause throat irritation and coughing. No wonder 20,679 physicians have stated LUCKIES to be less irritating! Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why TOASTING includes the use of the Ultra Violet Ray.

MAJOR C. M. STEDMAN DIES IN WASHINGTON

Last Confederate Veteran in Congress Passes at Age of 89.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Charles Manly Stedman, who fought with Stonewall Jackson in his battles against the Union army 60 years ago, died today in the position in which he had served his native state of North Carolina nearly two decades.

He was the last veteran of the blue and gray in congress and had been representative from the fifth North Carolina district since March 4, 1911.

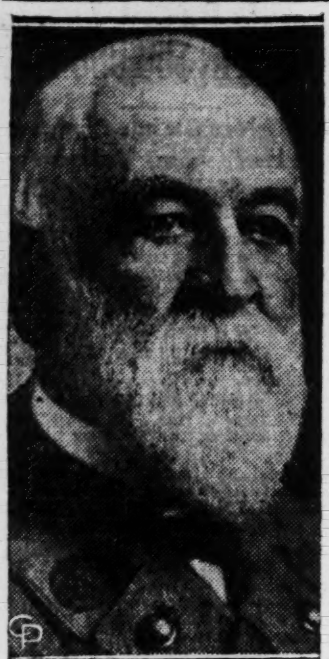

Elected to the house of representatives when he was nearly 70, Stedman had decided not to run for office again. His name was omitted from the June primary ballot this year for the first time since he entered congress. When he suffered an apoplectic stroke on September 9 his physicians declined to predict his recovery. Gradually he lost strength, and after a slight rally last week the 80-year-old veteran weakened rapidly and succumbed.

At the bedside since the stroke had been his daughter and personal secretary, Mrs. Katherine Palmer, of Greensboro, N. C., who had supervised his affairs since the death of Mrs. Stedman ten years ago.

Born at Pittsboro, N. C., on January 28, 1841, Stedman entered the Confederate army when he was 20. He campaigned under both Jackson and Lee for four years before Appomattox. He won the rank of major for his service. With the end of the war he began a law practice.

His public career began in 1880

Veteran Passes

Congressman Charles Manly Stedman, representative from the fifth North Carolina district for 20 years, died Tuesday at a Washington hospital at the age of 89. Death came to the beloved Carolinian, who fought for the Confederacy during the War Between the States, after an illness of several days. Representative Stedman was the last veteran of the civil war to sit among the nation's lawmakers.

When he attended the democratic national convention and four years later he became lieutenant governor of his state. A campaign for the governorship failed by a small majority.

Since his 85th birthday the house annually had suspended business to felicitate him on each anniversary.

At the last such occasion a colleague, Representative Dougherty, of North Carolina, announced Stedman's intention to retire.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

DRY LAW SHOWDOWN FACES HOOVER GROUP

Dry To Insist Wickersham Body Tell View on Prohibition.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(AP)—President Hoover's law enforcement commission will be faced with the proposition that it pass judgment on the prohibition problem when it reconvenes October 8.

Kenneth Mackintosh, a former Washington state supreme court justice and a dry, said today he would insist that the commission, of which he is a member, "go to the guts of the prohibition question."

Mr. Mackintosh, who has been studying exhaustive reports on crime and prohibition with the commission for more than a year, wants the commission to say whether the dry law is enforceable and is not, what could be done about it.

He is convinced the commission will seek to meet the issue which he regards as one of the most outstanding economic and social problems since the question of slavery. He also is convinced the 10 men and 1 woman on the commission are still of an open mind on the controversy awaiting study of the final reports.

New and comprehensive reports on prohibition, touching almost every conceivable phase of the question, await the attention of the members. Mackintosh said these reports are "interesting and illuminating."

No proposition is now before the commission from any of its members proposing either modification or repeal of the dry law. Persistent reports that the commission favors modification to permit light wines and beer are scoffed at in commission headquarters. It is recalled that chairman Wickersham himself last spring asserted that he did not believe the American taste regarded 2.75 per cent beer as "authoritative."

Considerable interest attaches here to the report of the commission, which is expected to have considerable influence on the position of President Hoover and the republican party in the 1932 campaign.

Chairman Wickersham has given notice several times that the commission is not going to report on whether "prohibition is a desirable thing for the country." However, he has said the commission has held the view that if it finds the law cannot be enforced or that it can be enforced, that should be stated.

There is no indication of whether the 11 minds can get together on the prohibition controversy. There have been several discussions of it already, but these have been deferred pending the receipt of the more exhaustive reports.

No program has been outlined by Chairman Wickersham for the commission when it reconvenes early next month, but some intimations have come from that commission that a final report on the prohibition phase is in prospect within the next few months.

WHEAT POURS OUT OF RUSSIA.

RIGA, Latvia, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Russia's wheat bound for western Europe is being shipped through this port in large quantities. For some time as much as 400 tons a day has been going through. Within the past three weeks the port has handled 6,000 tons.

REDS WOULD SLAY FISH—BLUMENFELD.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—(UN)—An exchange telegraph dispatch from Riga tonight said soviet Black Sea fishing vessels were ordered to stop fishing and to return to port.

Both Scheringer and Ludin criticized the government in their testimony, charging it failed to understand the feeling within the army ranks.

Ludin said that "nowadays any German pacifist or socialist is considered a traitor to his country."

"Only a fanatical nationalist can establish a new order," Ludin said.

The presiding judge warned Ludin to moderate his tone, when the witness cried: "The present army is the kernel of our future army of liberation."

He referred to hope of lifting Germany's war obligations.

The hearing revealed that young and old officers of the army frequently discussed whether the army would fulfill government orders, if such should be given, to fire on fascists.

"The old officers said they could do nothing for us," said Scheringer.

"All the officers were unanimous that the army should assist the fascists in any attempt to overthrow the government by violent means," Ludin testified.

"How dare you speak of the sentiment of the whole officers' corps?" the judge interrupted.

Nineteen witnesses have been subpoenaed for the trial and government experts are participating. An observer from the ministry of interior attended, watching closely as the defendants tried to sway the jury.

Wendt, who resigned his commission when arrested, has since become an active official of the fascist party.

The three men were charged chiefly with attempting to persuade the army to aid fascists in case of an outbreak of violence. Some of the army officers resented their activities and the cent election made the fascists second strongest party in the reichstag, also was expected to show the extent to which fascism has penetrated the army. The first testimony was given by Scheringer, who indicated that his conversations at Hitler's Munich headquarters showed the fascists intend to achieve their ends (overthrow of the republic) by legal means and "not by revolutionary methods."

Nineteen witnesses have been subpoenaed for the trial and government experts are participating. An observer from the ministry of interior attended, watching closely as the defendants tried to sway the jury.

Wendt, who resigned his commission when arrested, has since become an active official of the fascist party.

The three men were charged chiefly with attempting to persuade the army to aid fascists in case of an outbreak of violence. Some of the army officers resented their activities and the cent election made the fascists second strongest party in the reichstag, also was expected to show the extent to which fascism has penetrated the army. The first testimony was given by Scheringer, who indicated that his conversations at Hitler's Munich headquarters showed the fascists intend to achieve their ends (overthrow of the republic) by legal means and "not by revolutionary methods."

Both Scheringer and Ludin criticized the government in their testimony, charging it failed to understand the feeling within the army ranks.

Ludin said that "nowadays any German pacifist or socialist is considered a traitor to his country."

"Only a fanatical nationalist can establish a new order," Ludin said.

The presiding judge warned Ludin to moderate his tone, when the witness cried: "The present army is the kernel of our future army of liberation."

He referred to hope of lifting Germany's war obligations.

The hearing revealed that young and old officers of the army frequently discussed whether the army would fulfill government orders, if such should be given, to fire on fascists.

"The old officers said they could do nothing for us," said Scheringer.

"All the officers were unanimous that the army should assist the fascists in any attempt to overthrow the government by violent means," Ludin testified.

"How dare you speak of the sentiment of the whole officers' corps?" the judge interrupted.

Woman Gets $10,000 For Death of Child

A verdict of $10,000 against the Coca-Cola Bottling Company was awarded Mrs. Emma W. Davis Tuesday by a jury in Judge Hugh Dorsey's court at Atlanta for the death of her son, Robert Lee Davis.

The five-year-old boy was killed by a truck of the defendant on August 17, 1928, at Piedmont avenue and Pine street while he was crossing Piedmont street by the law firm of Troutman & Troutman. Mrs. Davis was named executrix.

H. L. Stearns Leaves Property to Widow

Property of the late Harry L. Stearns, prominent Atlanta real estate man, was left to his wife, Mrs. Alice May (Wing) Stearns, in the will filed Tuesday in the office of Ordinary Thomas H. Jeffries. The will was dated July 10, 1926. No estimate of the value of the estate was filed. The will was offered for probate by the law firm of Troutman & Troutman. Mrs. Stearns was named executrix.

Pee Wee Radios Latest Trend To Minatures

BY C. E. BUTTERFIELD, Associated Press Radio Editor. NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—(P)—A nation which got a large share of its summer's golf on courses no bigger than a city lot apparently is to adapt the same idea to radio.

That, at least, is the reaction of the casual observer viewing the new receivers on display at the seventh annual radio world's fair at Madison Square Garden. There is every indication the miniature trend has taken a real hold on the radio industry.

Some of the small sets are a counterpart of their bigger brothers. The elaborate consoles, but require less floor space and less height. Others look somewhat like mantel clocks, with a cabinet averaging around 17 inches high that houses both receiving apparatus, and the reproducing speaker.

While the entire show is not devoted to these small receivers, enough of them are present to indicate what may be the future trend.

In general, receiving equipment shows the engineer's effort toward improvement. There were better tuning devices, speakers and amplifiers, new-fangled cabinet designs, and many other advancements.

One of the improvements was a battery, designed for the new low current radio tubes, giving a year's service with average use.

Television, while not having as prominent a place this year as last, made up one display. It comprised various types of receivers, including kits and completely assembled outfits for both sound and picture.

Radio was not alone for mingling among the exhibits were ice boxes, vacuum cleaners and other electrical appliances.

There also was a booth where short wave signals could be heard and in others were demonstrations of the variety of things that vacuum tubes can do, including the operation of an automobile without a driver and the control of a mechanical man.

The opening ceremonies, which went on the air via the National Broadcasting Company chain, observed the tenth anniversary of broadcasting. The included talks by M. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Company, and H. G. Davis and Dr. Frank Conrad, of Westinghouse Electric, pioneers in the early development of KDKA, Pittsburgh. The exhibition closes Saturday night.

Report Thursday.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—(P)—The report of the postoffice department on leases of property for substations, out of which charges of fraud and corruption have arisen in the senate, is to be made public by the White House Thursday morning. It will deal minutely with each of the leases which cost the government $17,000,000 last year.

GRAND LODGE HEAD ACCEPTS INVITATION

Hugh W. Taylor To Attend Masonic Meeting Here Tonight.

Hugh W. Taylor, of Cuthbert, grand master of the grand lodge of Georgia, F. and A. M., has accepted an invitation to attend the "old time

HUGH W. TAYLOR.

Masonic meeting" to be held under the auspices of Malta lodge in the Scottish Rite hall in the Masonic temple tonight at 7:30 o'clock. He will be introduced by Walter R. Bush, first master of Malta lodge. Other high officials in the Masonic order in Georgia have signified their intention to be present.

The speaker of the evening, William B. Clarke, of Savannah, grand senior deacon, has qualified himself by constant rigid research, to present to his audience in a most forceful and interesting style, the subject of the origin and growth of freemasonry in Georgia. Among the massive documentary evidence that he displays during his address is a Bible presented by Lord Oglethorpe in pre-revolutionary days, to a Georgia Masonic lodge.

Invitations have been broadcast by Robert W. Bowie, master of Malta lodge, and by Dr. W. A. Upchurch, master of the fifth district, asking all Masons to be present at this unusual massing of the state's most prominent Masons, and an overflowing gathering is expected to be the result.

Ten Persons Indicted For Theft of Autos

Five indictments charging larceny of automobiles were returned Tuesday afternoon by the Fulton county grand jury. Ten persons were named defendants, two in each true bill.

J. B. Nabors and Raymond Williams, defendants under blackmail and robbery charges preferred by Dr. Irveron C. Case, were indicted on a charge of stealing the automobile of S. A. Martin, of Norcross, on September 8.

James Smith and John Crawford were indicted on a charge of larceny of an automobile from Miss Anita Marshall, of the Georgia Baptist hospital, on September 5.

W. E. Heath and J. T. Parker were charged with larceny of an automobile September 18 from J. S. Battillo, of 2137 Hardee street, S. E.

A. Tom Hinkle, alias J. B. Foster, and J. R. (Rube) Jarbush were charged with larceny of an automobile from Wilburn Sandifer, of Columbia, S. C., on August 25.

Two Women and Man Fail Suicidal Attempts

Three persons—two young women and a man—were recovering Tuesday from suicidal attempts of the previous day, caused, hospital reports stated, by ill health, a friendly quarrel and domestic despondency.

W. V. Fuller, 39, of 12 Ridgeway avenue, was in a private hospital, where he had been taken following his attempt to end his life by shooting himself Monday. At Grady hospital, Miss Gertrude Lacey, 20, of Birmingham, and Mrs. Ruth Langley, 20, of 430 Angier avenue, were reported out of danger from effects of poison taken in an effort at self-destruction. Miss Lacey gave her reason a quarrel with a girl friend, while Mrs. Langley, who is said to have been separated recently from her husband, said she had "many reasons."

Survey of Borough Audit Plan Launched

Survey of the borough bookkeeping system with a view to ascertaining the feasibility and economy of establishing a centralized system was begun in the departments of the borough government Tuesday by Elliott-Fisher Company, manufacturers of bookkeeping machinery.

The company will make the survey without any cost to the borough and at the invitation of the mayor and general council. Mayor I. N. Ragsdale has written letters to various department heads asking them to cooperate in the work.

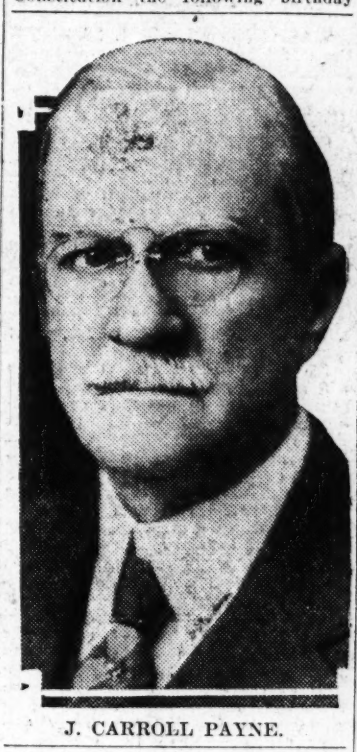

Indictment Charges Theft From Laundry

An indictment charging John T. Sims with burglary was returned Tuesday by the Fulton county grand jury. Sims is accused of stealing clothes and $16 in cash, representing a total value of $250, from the Trio Laundry, Inc., on September 17.

Sam Walker was indicted on a car-breaking charge. Walker is charged with stealing 1,700 pounds of Irish potatoes, valued at $55.35, from an N. C. & St. L. railway freight car on December 26.

Friend Lauds Carroll Payne On Birthday

J. Carroll Payne, esteemed Atlanta, celebrates today his 75th birthday. An intimate friend has sent to The Constitution the following birthday tribute and the sentiment expressed therein reflects the universal esteem in which Mr. Payne is held by his friends and fellow citizens.

J. CARROLL PAYNE.

J. Carroll Payne's Birthday. To live happy and make others so is the art of art. All accomplishment and high endeavor grow pale and commonplace beside this great achievement. It is the state of existence to which philosophers aspire and of which poets dream. It is the reward of godliness, the ideal life, where love and wisdom are entwined.

To have journeyed a long way on life's highway with a smile ever on the lips and a song ever in the heart; to have found joy in the day's task and content in the soul arrests the attention and challenges the admiration of our fellow travelers. For this is to have solved the great problem of living. The tempests of life, with their feverish disappointments, unexpected shadows and appalling surprises, soon dampen the spirit of common clay and smother the flame of youth with its lifting spirit and bright-eyed hope. But not so has Carroll Payne reacted to life. Though numbering the years of the faded philosophers and seers with their wisdom and vision, though suffering at times untold agonies and speechless pain, he still carries the eager expectancy of untired years, and simple joy crowns his full and beautiful days.

To have known him is to have sighted some far-distant land of one's youth where dreams come true, to have called him friend is to have been doubly blessed beyond all reckoning. In whatever place or circumstance we find this rare spirit, we feel an invisible hand directing his path, and we glimpse a great light shining.

Kindness illumines his way. Love is his hand-outstretched forgiveness, his bright jewel, and a nameless radiance, his shining mantle which magically opens to him all hearts.

Carroll Payne's abundant generosity and noble character, his exceptional endowments and extraordinary versatility, his intellectual gifts and broad culture, his usefulness and accomplishments in the practical business world, though outstanding, are as nothing compared to his service in the invisible but real world of spirit. For it is there that a man's measure is felt. And it is there that his family and friends love him for his rare radiant self and know his blessedness.

FALSE ARREST CHARGE MADE IN $60,000 SUIT

Cab Driver Claims Company Had Him Jailed Maliciously.

A suit seeking a total of $60,000 damages from the Black and White Cab Company and A. L. Bell, president of the cab firm, was filed Tuesday in Fulton superior court by C. C. Allen, a cab driver, who charges the defendants with malicious arrest, false imprisonment and malicious prosecution.

Allen asks for $20,000 damages on each of three counts. He alleges that he was arrested on July 1 on instructions by Belle Isle, without a warrant, and was acquitted in criminal court of Atlanta on September 16 when tried on a charge of larceny after trial preferred by the defendants.

The plaintiff charges that he was arrested for the purpose of forcing him to pay a small debt due the company and for the further purpose of making an example of him before the other drivers, even after he had offered payment of the debt. Allen alleges that the company changed its system from a percentage basis for drivers to a system where the drivers were to pay the company certain set charges for use of the cabs. On June 30 he turned in only $5.40, when the charges on the cab were $8.14, and offered to make the balance the next day, Allen alleges. The arrest followed his attempt next day to tender the company a check for the balance due, he alleges. The plaintiff is represented by the law firm of Carpenter and Ellis.

50-Pound Silver 'Mug' May Go to Sir Tom

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 23.—(P)—Sir Thomas Lipton, unsuccessful seeker after America's yacht-racing cup, may carry a 50-pound silver mug back to Great Britain.

Theron H. Tracey, vice president of the National League for Stabilizing Prosperity, last night announced he had telegraphed an offer of 50 pounds of silver to Mayor James Walker, of New York city.

Mayor Walker, at the suggestion of W. H. Rogers, the humorist, is collecting a fund to purchase the English sportsman's loving cup.

The National League for Stabilizing Prosperity is an organization seeking to maintain the price of silver.

Police Recover 100 Stolen Automobiles

More than 100 stolen automobiles have been recovered by local police since September 1, it was said at headquarters following arrest of two negroes on Stewart avenue by detectives acting on request of Macon authorities, who informed them a car had been stolen from that city only a few hours previously.

Eight men are being held in connection with local automobile thefts during the last few days, it was said. Among them were Mike Thompson, an Atlanta youth, who was arrested Saturday night charged with stealing an automobile owned by W. A. Hensell, former city chief of construction. Thompson was held under bond of $1,000, while his companion, W. A. Benson, of 1896 Boulevard, S. E., was dismissed in recorder's court.

hospital said, received a fractured skull and ruptured eardrum, and was unconscious several hours after being taken to the hospital. It was said that while his condition was serious, hope for his recovery was held.

Braswell To Oppose Weekes for Senator

W. H. Braswell, of Decatur, Tuesday announced he would oppose John Wesley Weekes, democratic nominee for state senator from the 34th district, in the regular election in November.

In his announcement Braswell calls attention to the condition of the state's finances and puts himself on record as being in favor of sweeping tax reforms. He advocates uniform school books to be furnished at cost and either the abolition or reorganization of the public service commission.

In county legislation, he announced he would favor giving the citizens an opportunity to express themselves as to county treasurer; would oppose efforts to prevent the sale of raw milk, and favors repeal of the bill grouping candidates. He would have passed a bill putting county commissioners under security bonds.

SO COMFORTABLE SO EASY TO DRIVE

If you want to know what restful riding comfort and what delightful ease of handling you really can have in a moderately priced car, come drive an Oldsmobile.

For both Oldsmobile's beautiful Fisher body and its fine, dependable chassis are designed with particular attention to comfort and convenience.

Body interiors are generously proportioned—with ample head room and leg room. Seats are wide and deep-cushioned. Relaxation is invited the minute you take your place in the car.

Examination of the chassis reveals additional reasons why travel should be so restful. Springs are long and flexible... controlled in action by four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers. A low center of gravity and balanced weight contribute to roadability—an important factor in comfort and safety.

As for ease of handling, you will discover the reasons as soon as you take the wheel and drive. True fingertip steering... smooth, quiet gear-shifting... instant acceleration... and quick-acting, fully-enclosed, four-wheel brakes.

You will enjoy driving Oldsmobile because it is so comfortable, so easy to handle... and so alert and capable in every respect. Come try it—over roads of your own choice. You will find it an unusual car in many ways—and a great one in all.

3500 Southern Women Wrote this Advertisement of Blue Ribbon Steel Beds

IN the last few years thousands of women have written us reasons for their preference of Blue Ribbon Steel Beds. Short extracts from a few of the 3500 letters received are shown here. Read them. You've heard us tell about Blue Ribbon Beds for years . . . now see what women all over the South, some of them, surely, with homes very much like your own, have to say. And remember . . . the same Blue Ribbon Beds about which these women wrote can be bought from your favorite furniture dealer—at prices that are remarkably moderate . . . for they are made entirely, except for the beautifully hand-rubbed finishes, on labor-saving machinery—of steel.

These thousands of women have advanced enough reasons, certainly, to convince you that you should see these Blue Ribbon Steel Beds before you buy a bed. And now scientific study of sleep reveals even other important reasons why you should compare them, judge them critically—with any other type or make of bed—before you make your final choice.

Your body favors twelve different positions for really Restful Sleep

Recent, careful, scientific study of sleep—made in leading American Universities under the direction of some of the world's best known psychologists—has brought to light some valuable—though startling—facts. Contrary to wide-spread belief, restful, energy-supplying sleep is not sleep in which you "lie like a log" for hours at a time. On the other hand, to gain the greatest benefit from sleep, you move from time to time—often only slightly, it is true and almost always unconsciously. But by moving you give alternate relief to the parts of your body which were subjected to the greatest strain during the day . . . thus building up new strength for every muscle in your body. And these studies have gone even farther. They have proven that there are twelve different postures which the normal, healthy person prefers. During the night you will assume all—or nearly all—of them, one or more times. To find these positions effortlessly, quickly and entirely unconsciously requires an ideal combination of proper bedding.

Read these short extracts from a few of the thousands of letters received

I chose as a nucleus around which to build my bedroom, a Blue Ribbon Steel Bed of clouded jade and the resultant room is a poem in tones of silvery gray and soft greens, with a judicious accent of lacquer red . . . Let me thank the master craftsmen who design these beds and work them out with such an exquisite attention to detail.

*Mrs. H. B., Hendersonville, N.C.

Blue Ribbon Beds are safely comfortable. No longer need one be aroused from sound slumber by creaking corners or loosened joints. The patented steel corner lock holds them absolutely rigid and allows the sleeper more actual rest and uninterrupted sleep.

When I selected a Blue Ribbon Steel Bed, the Virginia, I found the soft brown finish and the quaint Windsor shape blended perfectly with my mahogany bureau and my old sewing stand, while the colorful floral decorations on the panels formed a pivotal motif for my selection of shades in my chintz curtains and hooked rugs. As a result I have an old-fashioned interior with a charming modern slant.

*M. W., Columbia, S.C.

Since the bed is the center of interest in every correct bedroom (the room derives its name from the most important piece of furniture), too much care cannot be given to the selection of the bed. So I prefer Blue Ribbon Steel Beds because they supply all the demands upon a piece of furniture necessary to beautiful interiors—beauty, strength, adaptability, real sleep comfort and with it all, economy.

*Mrs. H. H. N., Birmingham, Ala.

I prefer a Blue Ribbon Steel Bed because on our modest income it is necessary that we economize, and in so doing with a Blue Ribbon Bed we do not have to sacrifice either beauty, comfort, durability or our sense of pride.

*Mrs. A. B. D., Jacksonville, Fla.

Blue Ribbon Beds . . . while as strong as Gibraltar, are less cumbersome than the earlier beds of wood or metal. They are more easily moved from one section of the room to another because of the firmness of construction. They are most quickly and with very little effort set up, and as rapidly taken down and apart.

*Mrs. J. B. W., Millbrook, Ala.

I prefer Blue Ribbon Beds because they are simple, yet beautiful and distinctive. They have the lovely appearance of wood yet all the advantages of steel. The styles . . . will always give a peaceful and restful appearance to the room.

*Mrs. I. B. McC., Buena Vista, Ga.

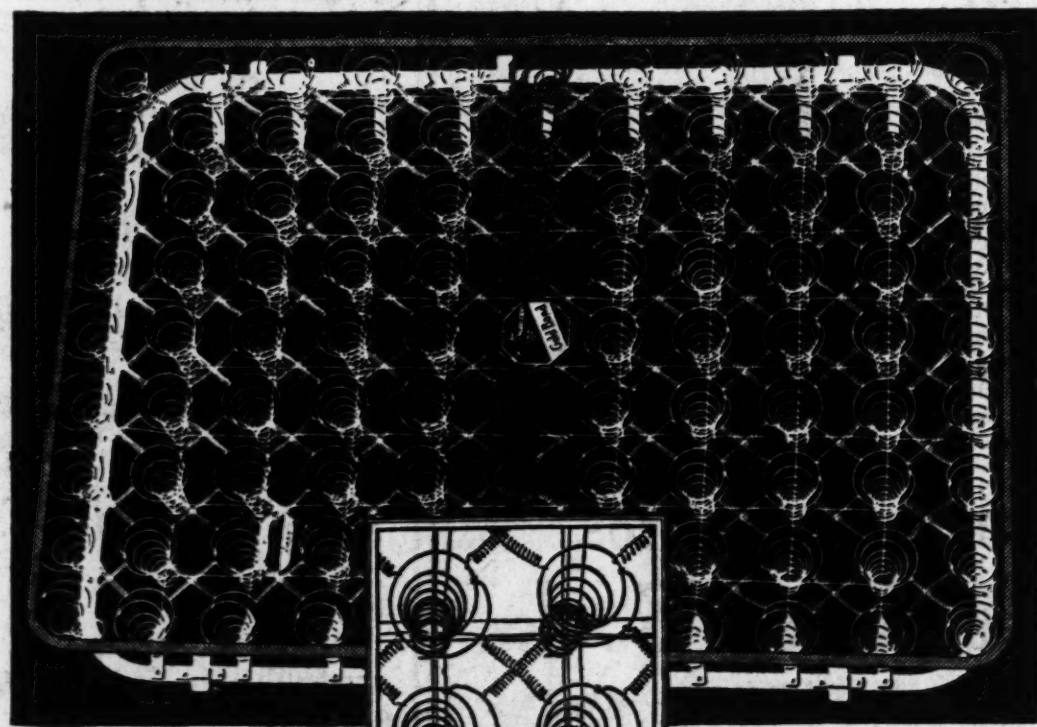

I prefer Blue Ribbon Steel Beds because I believe in sanitary things in the home. Things that are clean, and easy to keep clean. Blue Ribbon Beds are both. Such smooth surfaces that no dirt can collect. And no cracks!

*Mrs. J. F. P., Knoxville, Tenn.

The durability of Blue Ribbon Steel Beds lends strength and steadiness to our rest. The cleanability of Blue Ribbon Steel Beds lends secure knowledge of health and sanitation to rest. The economy of Blue Ribbon Steel Beds lends peace of mind to rest.

*Mrs. L. H., New Orleans, La.

THE
DUO-FLEX

The genuine Blue Ribbon Duo-Flex has a band of gold coils through the center of the spring.

Blue Ribbon Beds and Springs allow you to assume these positions Most Easily and Most Restfully

Blue Ribbon Beds fulfil the first requisite of this new idea of sleep by supplying a perfect foundation for your spring and your mattress. For Blue Ribbon Beds are as staunch and steady as a skyscraper. They are made entirely of specially designed steel tubing—carefully welded at every point of strain. This feature, plus the Blue Ribbon corner lock, assures you that your Blue Ribbon Bed will never squeak, wobble nor sway. The greater the strain you place on the Blue Ribbon Lock, the tighter it holds. Thus you rest in perfect ease and comfort . . . you move whenever necessary—with no feeling of uneasiness or insecurity so common with the ordinary bed of wood.

And be sure that your Blue Ribbon Bed is equipped with a Blue Ribbon Spring . . . the Blue Ribbon Duo-Flex is illustrated here. The Duo-Flex is unconditionally guaranteed to give you the most restful sleep that you have ever known. It contains 99 double-deck coils—each tempered and retempered to the resiliency of watch-spring steel. And these fine coils are so designed that they work individually—conforming easily and exactly to the contours of your body. For this reason they allow you to find the maximum number of bodily positions that you require and allow you to hold each position in solid comfort for a reasonable length of time. The cost of the Duo-Flex is remarkably moderate—only $19.75. And there are four other Blue Ribbon Springs—at four other prices. You can recognize them easily, too, by a band of gold coils through the center. Be sure that the spring you buy has this Gold Band of Quality.

Your favorite furniture dealer is displaying Blue Ribbon Steel Beds and Blue Ribbon Springs. He'll gladly show them to you . . . gladly give you the opportunity to select the ones best suited to your particular needs—and your purse. Whichever you choose—whatever the price you pay . . . if you are only careful that it bears the name Blue Ribbon . . . will give you the utmost in high quality and permanent comfort.

Georgia's Future as Play Mecca Stressed by Redden

Growing Importance of Huge Tourist Business Places State in Position To Reap Benefits, He Says.

Painting Georgia as the future play mecca of the nation and urging Georgians to begin at once a nationwide advertising campaign to acquaint the world with her recreational advantages, which he declared to be second to none, Charles F. Redden, of Brunswick, delivered an address Tuesday as the feature of the regular weekly luncheon of the Atlanta Civilian Club at the Atlanta Athletic Club. His subject was "Georgia as a Resort State."

"A total of 45,000,000 Americans spend $5,000,000,000 annually in play during their vacation seasons," Mr. Redden told his hearers. "There was a time when the business man of the east thought it impossible to get away from his work long enough to take a vacation in a moderate climate. That time has passed. The winter vacation is a reality."

"Georgia, with her unmatched climatic advantages, her sea coasts, her beautiful mountains and her natural advantages, offers the best playground in the entire country. Her advantages are second to none. All we have to do is to tell the tourist we are here and to provide for them once we get them here."

"Recreation and resorts are now the third biggest business in America. It will be a matter of only a few short months before it will be the biggest, I believe."

"Every Georgian can, I believe, double his income within the next five years, and that through the state taking advantage of the tourist flow—by selling Georgia as a playground to the nation."

"Last year $5,000,000,000 was spent by vacationists. Of that amount $4,000,000,000 was spent in America and the other $1,000,000,000 in foreign countries. A vacationist takes his check book and ready cash with him. He expects to pay for service. What he pays out is ready cash, and that is what we need."

"California started advertising several years ago on a small budget of $40,000. Today it is operating under a budget of over $1,000,000 for advertising for the year. That state, or any other state in the Union, is doing nothing we haven't. We have everything they have and more."

"It is estimated that 2,000,000 tourists a year visit California. About 10 per cent of them stay or return. California increased 2,000,000 in the last ten years in population, the largest increase of any political subdivision of anything near its size in history."

"Maine does more tourist business each year than all her other industries put together. In 1914, Maine had a population of 7,000 and $6,000,000 deposited in its banks. Eleven years later it had a population of 100,000 and more than $200,000,000 in deposits. It is said that $300,000,000 is spent annually by tourists in Florida."

"Georgia has everything any one of the others can offer. It is admirably located and is easily accessible. All we have to do is to tell the nation what we have here for them. People from all parts of the country will flock to our mountains, to the sea coasts, and inland for hunting and fishing. They will spend cash, and that is what we need."

Mr. Redden praised the Georgia State Chamber of Commerce, of which Wiley D. Moore is president, for its endeavor to advertise the state. He declared some such move is necessary to acquaint the country of Georgia's superiority in the things it offers in a recreational way."

Neil Castagnoli, clarinet star, appearing as one of the leading attractions at the Fox theater this week, furnished music.

Herbert Porter and Tut Broyles presided over the meeting.

Evangelical Mission Appeals for Funds

Financial distress will compel the suspension by the People's Evangelical mission of its custom of serving free lunches to the destitute unless public aid is given, according to a statement made Tuesday by the Rev. Sam Haynes, superintendent of the mission, which is located at 301 Capitol avenue. Lack of funds, the statement said, will make it necessary to discontinue the program of free lunches.

Veterans of 82d To Seek State Fiddlin' Honors

Fiddlers competing for the Georgia state championship at the auditorium Friday and Saturday nights probably will be swelled in number this year by contestants among members of the Eighty-second division, here for their big reunion. There were some notable fiddlers among the Georgia boys at Camp Gordon and in France, and several ancient instruments went through the Argonne campaign without a scratch.

Corporal Sam Garner, of Glynn county, is the only army minstrel who has entered his name for the championship so far, but members of the 326th infantry have been urging Jim Everett, of Columbus, to bring his famous fiddle, "Singing Sally," to the reunion and uphold the honor of his regiment. Both Garner and Everett are well remembered by old Atlanta comrades.

A. A. Gray, of Tallapoosa, present Georgia champion fiddler, is promised stiff competition this year by the entry of Tom Collins, of Acworth, who has been winning all the fiddling contests in North Carolina for several years. Mr. Collins has moved back to Georgia and therefore is eligible to try for the championship. He has attained considerable fame by his national radio broadcasts.

Fifty or more musicians will be on the stage at the auditorium when the convention begins Friday, according to the present entry lists. Sessions will start at 8 o'clock Friday and Saturday nights and 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, and the usual large audiences are expected.

President Honors Freshmen at Emory

Following the initiation into college life of 225 members of the freshman class, which began Tuesday at Emory University, the newcomers at the local institution Tuesday night attended the reception tendered them by President H. W. Cox, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

The remainder of the week will be given over to introductory exercises for the Emory beginners, including examinations of physiological and psychological nature, tryouts for the football team, and instructive talks on the use of the university library, student activities, including athletics and the Emory honor system.

Dr. Goodrich C. White, dean of the college of arts and sciences, will hold a discussion of the university curriculum during the week of "introduction" exercises. A barbecue and reception by the university Y. M. C. A. will be given the freshmen at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Foreign Trade Group To Resume Sessions

Resumption of the bimonthly luncheon meetings of the Atlanta Foreign Trade Club will be inaugurated today when the members of that organization gather in the ladies' dining room of the Atlanta Athletic Club at 12:30 o'clock for the first of the autumn sessions.

Announcement of the resumption of the club's luncheon meetings was made Tuesday by William A. Dunlap, secretary, who urged all members to encourage attendance of women guests at each session. Luncheons during the coming season will be held at the club on each second and fourth Wednesday in the month.

Purdue, Under Bond, Denies 'Still' Charges

Sid Purdue, of Ben Hill, whose wife testified he had been hauling wood to the "stillers," according to testimony of federal prohibition agents, was held Tuesday under bail of $500 as an aftermath to the explosion of a distillery boiler September 11 which caused the death of G. C. Withers. Purdue denied he knew anything about the still and told agents if his wagon and mule had been used on the well-worn road from his house to the still it had been done without his consent.

Perryman To Speak At Gordon St. Church

Judge C. J. Perryman, of the Toombs judicial circuit, who is presiding in Fulton superior court for Judge John D. Humphries, will speak on "Education and Organized Crime" at the meeting of the Layman's Union of the Gordon Street Baptist church at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night. Judge Perryman is a graduate of the Southern Normal University, Huntington, Tenn., with an LL.B. degree, class of 1901. He has served as city councilman and board of education member in Lincoln, his home, and was elevated to the bench in the Toombs circuit on January 1, 1925.

Price Probe Awaits Receipt of Records

Start of the investigation of Borough Purchasing Agent William P. Price and his office will be delayed until Solicitor-General John A. Boykin's office turns over to Nelson T. Spratt, chairman of the probing body of council, the records of the grand jury's probe of Price, Spratt announced Tuesday.

"The committee should have all records possible available," Mr. Spratt declared, "and I have decided not to start until we are able to go into all the matters which we must consider."

"I have been informed that the solicitor's office is still working on some of the records in connection with the Grady hospital investigation, and we do not wish to proceed until we get them all."

No estimate as to when all the records will become available could be made.

Produce Row Parking Conference Scheduled

Solution of the parking problem presented by produce trucks is expected at a joint meeting of the traffic committee and the second ward councilmanic delegation at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the city hall, it was announced Tuesday by James L. Wells, chairman of the traffic committee.

Discussion of the question will be confined to members of the joint committee as a public hearing was held last week at which nearly a score of persons spoke.

Full Program Formulated For New Georgia Chamber

Program of Agricultural and Industrial Co-operation To Be Presented to Directors Friday.

Formation of a definite program for reorganizing and conducting the Georgia State Chamber of Commerce was completed Tuesday afternoon at a meeting of civic leaders from all parts of Georgia, and will be presented to the executive committee of the state chamber at a meeting to be held at the Ansley hotel at 12:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, it was announced by Wiley L. Moore, president.

Tuesday's meeting was of a special committee, appointed by Mr. Moore, following the statewide conference in Atlanta last week. It adopted for submission to the directors Friday a definite program for agricultural development, industrial expansion, educational work, promotion of tourist business and other activities to be carried out in co-operation with other similar trade and civic organizations throughout the state.

The committee also voted to assist actively in the organization of county civic groups in counties where none exist.

As outlined at Tuesday's meeting the objectives for agricultural work are:

To work actively for an amendment to the constitution to permit counties to contribute legally to the salary and expenses of county agents.

To place a county agent in every county.

Co-operate fully with the State College of Agriculture, extension service and the state department of agriculture, experimental stations, department of vocational education and other competent agencies.

With the advice and assistance of federal and state departments and national co-operative associations and where farmers in a locality deserve it, to stimulate the organization of and membership strength of commodity co-operative marketing associations.

Industrial Activities.

Among industrial activities planned for submission to the directors at Friday's session were:

To launch a program of industrial research, co-operating with existing educational and commercial agencies;

To assist local organizations in making practical surveys of their industrial, agricultural and commercial resources;

To assist these organizations in interpreting facts which these surveys have gathered and in maintaining practical programs of activities within their communities.

In the educational field the committee's proposals include that which would secure for the state a nine-month school period in every county, working in co-operation with educational associations; and to work for general improvements in the educational opportunities open to children of the state.

The co-ordination of efforts to promote the agricultural, industrial and social development of the state, Mr. Moore declared, "should be of tremendous constructive force. We hope to make the state chamber of commerce the greatest thing that ever happened to Georgia."

Constructive Work.

"This is not a political proposition. It is not a proposition to create jobs for a lot of people and do a lot of talking about what is wrong with Georgia. It is a concerted effort to carry out a constructive work and suggestions from every one will be welcomed."

In its recommendations, the committee stressed the importance of promoting tourist business in the state, assisting every community to attract tourist trade and carrying out a consistent program for drawing visitors to Georgia.

The personnel of the committee which drew up the report made public Tuesday consists, besides Mr. Moore, of the following: T. W. Sterrett, Atlanta manager of the Prudential Life Insurance Company and president of the Southeastern Real Estate and Property Owners' Association; W. E. Aycock, secretary of the Moultrie Chamber of Commerce; J. P. McGrath, secretary of the Georgia Manufacturers' Association; Lincoln McConnell, manager of the Macon Chamber of Commerce; J. M. Simmons, of Bainbridge, president of the Elberta Box and Crate Factory; W. R. Bowen, capitalist, of Fitzgerald; H. G. Hastings, president of the Hastings Steel Company, of Atlanta, and W. C. Stokes, of the Inter-Southern Insurance Company, of Atlanta.

Negress Given Life
For Slaying Woman

A life sentence was meted out to Flora Stockton, negress, yesterday afternoon by a jury in Fulton superior court in finding the woman guilty of the murder on August 9 of Mary Moore, negress, with a recommendation to the mercy of the court.

Sentence will be passed this morning by Judge C. J. Perryman, of Toombs circuit, presiding for Judge John D. Humphries, Attorney John W. Thomas, representing the defendant, said he would file a motion for a new trial.

The two women lived in the same house on Decatur street, and the slaying was said to have been the result of an argument over their respective sons, each 11 years old. The Stockton woman pleaded self-defense. Assistant Solicitor-General John H. Hudson conducted the prosecution.

Mayor Ragsdale Calls For Borough Economy

Mayor I. N. Ragsdale Tuesday addressed letters to all department heads calling on them to be as economical as possible in the operation of the various divisions of the borough government for the coming year. He also called for a reduction in the number of employees.

Orchestra To Present
Musical Program

A musical entertainment will be presented at Ponce de Leon Methodist church at 7:45 o'clock tonight by the Hull orchestra of the Atlanta Conservatory of Music, it was announced Tuesday afternoon. The Rev. Dr. J. B. Van Pelt will deliver a lecture on his recent trip to Germany and his visit to Oberammergau, where he viewed the great Passion Play.

'ELITE' OF POULTRY WORLD TO COMPETE

More Than 500 Birds Expected as Entries in Fair Contest.

With entries for more than 300 birds already received, the 1936 poultry show at the Southeastern fair, October 4-11, should be the best in the history of the association, it was declared Tuesday by officials of the fair. Preparations are being made to care for more than 500 birds in the poultry show, which will be located on the upper midway in the old dance pavilion.

Four champion birds, which have received blue ribbons for the best of the breed in poultry shows at Chicago, Boston and Madison Square Garden, in New York, will be on display. The entries were received Monday by John P. Frasch, Jr., superintendent of the poultry department.

Other Champions.

In addition to the four champions, there will be blue ribbon winners in every breed on exhibit.

There also will be more than 500 pigeons, and seven varieties of pheasants.

Alfred C. Newell, president of the Southeastern Fair Association, announced Monday through its secretary and general manager, Oscar Mills, that M. C. Wise, of Greenwood, S. C., will again be the poultry judge. It will be Mr. Wise's second year.

Wednesday, October 1, will be the last day to enter poultry, and all entries should be addressed to the Southeastern Fair Association, Box 1006, Atlanta.

Spelling Bee.

Georgia's champion speller will be chosen Monday, October 6, at the annual state-wide spelling bee to be held at the fair as a feature of the Children's Day program. The winner, in addition to being the state's champion speller, will receive a cash award of $100. Second award will be $50 and 10 awards of $5 or more will be given the next best spellers.

Each county in the state may send one representative, boy or girl, to be chosen by the county school superintendent by a competitive method. An alternate may be named in case the principal cannot be present.

The contest is open to every grammar, high school or private school student in Georgia, except those who have won first prizes before in the state contests. The students must be enrolled during the fall term of 1936.

The Trubee-Stevens speller for advanced grades, the state text, will be used first as a list of words for contestants. The 1936 high school spelling list will be used as a second list, and the students will be standing, the old-fashioned blue book spelling or will be brought back into service.

The first entry for the contest was received Monday by State Eva Driskell, of Dallas, Ga., outspelled all opponents and was named by C. A. Roberts, county superintendent, to represent Paulding county. Miss Mildred Scoggins was named as an alternate.

LESS HEAT REQUIRED
WHEN AIR IS MOIST

Steel-riveted and Gas-tight
Lennox Torrid Zone Furnace Has Most Practical Humidifier

When air is dry, it must be held at a higher temperature for bodily comfort than when it contains a proper amount of humidity. As the heated air in most homes contains only 12% to 20% relative humidity (which is drier than the Sahara Desert) it follows that extra fuel is being burned to maintain a comfortable temperature. This extra fuel is one of the savings effected by the Lennox Torrid Zone Warm Air Furnace. Because the Torrid Zone humidifier has twice the evaporating area right inside the casing of ordinary water pans and is positioned for most efficient evaporation.

Extra fuel is also saved through the design of the Torrid Zone furnace and the oversized radiator. Combustion is more thorough and more heat is squeezed from the smoke and gases before they go up the chimney. This remarkable furnace is designed for hard or soft coal, coke, lignite, wood, gas or oil—and is built to outlast two or three ordinary furnaces. See the particular model for your home and your fuel. Made by the Lennox Furnace Company, Syracuse, N. Y. — Marshalltown, Iowa — Toronto, Canada.

LABOR TO LIVE—Let us labour therefore to enter into that rest, lest any man fall after the same example of unbelief.—Heb. 4:11

FIRST IN FORESTRY.

One of the notable and valuable educational advances in Georgia last year was the introduction of the teaching of forestry in 100 high schools and rural consolidated schools, and in 40 colored schools that have vocational courses.

Practical scientific forestry is becoming yearly more important to the future welfare of the state, where much land is being abandoned as profitable farm land and where much submarginal land exists fit, but highly fit, to be forested for future timber supplies.

The state is deeply indebted to the Georgia forest service under State Forester Lufburrow and Paul W. Chapman, federal director of vocational education in Georgia, in setting up a co-operative arrangement between their bureaus and the directing heads of vocational agricultural schools of the state to introduce forestry instruction.

This Georgia undertaking, so far as known, is the first of its kind and has attracted nationwide attention in school and forestry circles. Other states have now undertaken to carry out the plan following the lead of Georgia.

The number of students taking forestry courses last session year was 2,359 and during the year 86 school forests, averaging 10 acres each were surveyed and mapped. The principles and actual practice of forestation is taught and the number of schools so instructing will be increased from year to year. The authorities engaged in the work are highly pleased with the work already done and the advancement of it is sure to come.

This wise and practical plan of educating and encouraging the people to use and endow with incalculable values the now waste and otherwise unprofitable lands of the state must be encouraged in every possible way. It promotes soil preservation, flood prevention, timber supply and untellable wealth to future Georgia.

SCHOOL SYSTEM REFORMS.

In the allocation of public school functions and appropriations there is a growing application of sound theories of educational utility.

The elementary schools, for instance, are regarded as an initial division of the system, composed of the eight grades beyond which perhaps not more than 20 per cent of the children of any community go with their schooling. These are set up and administered as practically a system of themselves. Then follow the junior high schools, which are coming more and more into favor and in which some wise educators carry on vocational courses that will "induct the pupil with preparation for work" which many of them must take up at the end of junior high school attendance. The senior high schools are designed and operated principally to provide preparation for college and for the various professional schools.

It is found that only about 5 per cent of those who enter the first grade of the elementary schools persist to the point of entering a college course. Therefore it is sensibly argued that the public money and educational effort should be most employed to benefit the largest number of children and fit them as adequately as possible for the common gainful occupations into which many of them must go.

Upon this coherent and co-ordinate line of progressive instruction most of the public school systems are being adjusted, with notable economies of expense and effort, and more excellent educational fruitage. Some steps to the like ends have been taken in Georgia and the state system will undoubtedly be more efficient and better productive of capable citizens when an entire readjustment shall have been made.

A SHAMEFUL CONTRAST.

We get the news from London that this past year 27 British prisons have been closed and that the jail population of the kingdom has declined 70 per cent since the World War began in 1914. Two of the historic great prisons of London, Wandsworth and Pentonville, are torn away to make room for housing constructions for the working people.

If we remember accurately some such most excellent consequences were promised to the people of this country if they would only adopt the constitutional amendment proposed by the prohibitionists. No one doubts that the promises were made in utter good faith, but the consequences have been exactly to the contrary.

The federal government is spending many millions of dollars upon new penitentiaries and to enlarge the older ones. Nearly all of the states have been called upon since the World War and the advent of prohibition to enlarge and add to their prison accommodations. Our jail populations are constantly increasing as our crime waves roll in upon us constantly higher and heavier.

Great Britain has more poverty and unemployment, supported by doles from the public treasuries, and higher taxes by far than we have. But 30 per cent of pre-war crime. On the other hand we have a lawless liquor traffic that is the Gorgon head shaking upon us everywhere the serpents of every crime known to the calendar of the underworld. The issue of the day is, how shall we escape so great damnation? Ask who?

THE LAST CONFEDERATE.

The last veteran of the War Between the States to sit in the congress of the nation, Major Charles Manley Stedman, of North Carolina, ex-Confederate states army officer, yesterday passed in spirit over the veiled and silent river that separates time from eternity.

Major Stedman was from his youth into this the nineteenth year of his age a stalwart representative of southern manhood, honor, courage and convictions of the strongest moral and spiritual character. He was serving his twelfth year as a representative of the fifth congressional district of North Carolina.

In his home state and in the national council he was esteemed by all who knew his sterling worth, his gentleness and his fidelity to his friends and the public service. He will be mourned in every section of the nation as a true patriot and American of the best and most trusted type.

A BID FOR WORLD PEACE.

The hope expressed by Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary in the British cabinet, to the council of the League of Nations at Geneva, that it will call a general conference next year to consider limitation of all war armaments of the nations, is another strong bid for a new order of civilization—a golden age of peace, production and plenty.

To the man who reads current conditions in all civilized lands and reasons calmly about them there appears no imperative reason for more wars between the enlightened nations. He can see no justification under heaven for any renewed wholesale slaughter of human beings by the horrific engines of modern war.

No territorial gain to any nation can be worth a million souls wiped out by shot, shells and poison gas to acquire it at the end of a bloody, destructive war.

No trade advantage to any existing industrial and commercial nation can recompense even a tithe of the losses of life and treasure by the World War.

Most of the nations have their posterity now mortgaged to the neck to pay for past wars. Why add more such wasteful burdens—in Bryan's words, indeed, press down such crowns of thorns upon the brows of yet unborn labor and crucify existing generations upon the cross of Mars, the most inhuman of all the gods?

The labor government of Great Britain and Arthur Henderson, its spokesman to the nations, will win universal praise and gratitude if they will press to action the concert of the nations to make good the Kellogg-Briand pact, to reduce all war armaments to peace police bases, and persuade their people to look upon sanguinary wars as among the "lost arts" of mankind.

Three revolution-produced South American governments are recognized by our authorities. Well, that's the way our government was produced.

Bobby Jones is not just puttering around at Merion, but is right there with the putter.

Senator Dave Walsh fears the Cubans are on the edge of a revolt. But when people revolt against themselves it is their own business. Why should Walsh worry?

Some very powerful southern Methodists will try again to fire their Cannon.

A Slovak Patriot.

Horror and indignation have been expressed in Slovakia at the treatment meted out to Professor Vutecsek Tuka, the former "spiritual leader" of the Slovak autonomist movement. Professor Tuka, a distinguished scholar, who formerly occupied a chair at Bratislava University, was charged with treasonable agitation in Hungarian interests. He declined to flee the country, and awaited arrest. After eight months in prison he was brought to trial before a Czech court. Despite the declarations of some of the witnesses against him that they had been terrorized into giving evidence, he was sentenced to 15 years imprisonment. Professor Tuka contended strenuously that he had sought only autonomy for Slovakia within the Czechoslovak state, and that he had no connection with Hungary. The silver-haired professor is to be given a convict's crop and dressed in convict's clothes. His Slovak friends are bitterly disappointed that President Masaryk, who was himself sentenced to death in Austria-Hungary for precisely the same conduct as has been laid to Tuka's charge, should not have laid the appeal for a free pardon. The doctrine of self-determination was never intended for the victor nations. Belgium showed it first by incarcerating the Flemish activist Borms. Czechoslovakia follows.

We Don't Spot the Oppressor.
That rare, rough old cynic, Carlyle, in London public house, heard a working man complaining to a companion about the oppression of the government. Carlyle strode to the table and, pointing to the beer pot in the fellow's hand, shouted: "Thou fool, it is that beer pot that oppresses thee!" Which was probably a 100 per cent truth.

The Russian Guard.

An unusual spectacle greeted promenaders along the Champs Elysees the other day. Detachments of strangely uniformed men, marching under a flag that is not seen any more in the world, moved in the direction of the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. These represented what is left of the Imperial Russian guard and the Cossack regiments. They were sent to fight the flames of remembrance on the tomb. At their head marched a group of generals and Cossack atamans, their breasts gleaming with the eagles and orders of the Russian Empire. Upon closer inspection it was seen that the uniforms of the Cossacks are beginning to grow ragged and discolored with age. There was something pathetic in the way they marched, these men of a forlorn hope and an empire that is no more. Grouped around the tomb, the Russian regiments chanted one of those stirring hymns with opera-like effect which the eastern church composed in harmony with the mysticism and nostalgia of the East. "God Preserve the Czar!" but their voices were drowned by the sharp rattle of an electric hammer testing out its music of the future on the steel frame of a warehouse under construction near by. Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

IF SILLY TILLY IS ON A DIET

SO'S HER OLD MAN.

Next to the practice of eschewing that or that in the line of victuals because you have a notion it is hard to digest or makes acid or something, perhaps the silliest of popular diet monkeyshines is eating such and such things, which you positively detest, because some wishbone professor or mail order "food specialist," as he calls himself, opines that it is fine for your nerves, good for your liver or soothing for some other innards.

A great many people, not of low intelligence, make it a rule to pass up certain of the most palatable viands because they think it is "so binding." It may arouse controversy, but I make this assertion without fear of competition, namely, that the only reason for rejecting a food is because of its indigestibility. It may arouse controversy, but I make this assertion without fear of competition, namely, that the only reason for rejecting a food is because of its indigestibility.

Every wholesome item of food is more or less laxative. There is no exception. Certain foods are more completely digested than others, leaving less residue in the alimentary canal, and some such foods are the least laxative, for it is the undigested or indigestible residue that serves as the natural or natural stimulant not only to digestion but to regular normal elimination.

However, it is, in my judgment, an error for well folk to give any particular consideration to this effect of food in selecting their diet. To those who have by bad advice and from ignorance of physiology, achieved a chronic habit of constipation, I would say, "Never mind laxative anything! Eat! Enjoy your victuals and try to let your mind dwell on other and more cheerful thoughts than what dire consequences this and that indulgence is likely to have."

If you are not morbidly finical in the choice of your food you are certain to take a sufficient variety to insure quite the right balance for normal intestinal digestion and for normal bacterial flora.

Beware particularly of plausible boasts about dry fasting, about cleansing the alimentary canal, and do not take seriously the pathological theories of the milkman or his bacterial cultures. Just consume plentifully of the dairy products he brings, and let him hire a hall if he means to get into the quack doctor business.

After all, have you ever known a really good physician to open the interior of your bowels? If you ever do encounter a reputable practitioner who does so, outside of a nostrum appeal, please give me his name and address.

I acknowledge that there are cases of pathological constipation which require special medical treatment. But I am certain that 99.44 per cent of the people who have the physical habit of constipation are merely victims of a habit, and I believe that this habit could be broken in every instance if it were possible to separate the victim for, say, 30 days, from access to physics and compel him to eat like regular folks of the victuals placed before him on the table.

Gray, was reported to be visiting at Columbus today. Mrs. Byers arrived at the hospital upon being told her husband was dead.

The two men had been associates even before their service with the Western Maryland. When Byers was a division engineer with the Baltimore & Ohio in 1904, Gray was a division freight agent for the same road.

Baltimore bankers and others who knew both men said that for months there had been a noticeable and growing antagonism between them. Minor railroad officials said they had heard several stormy conferences in recent months.

Police were told in recent weeks they had been at odds in litigation with the Western Maryland. Gray was the shooting threw the railroad offices into confusion. Four hours later an official police report of the known circumstances wrought some order out of the welter of rumors and theories.

Charles E. Belt, working in the outer office, dashed into a corridor that separates this from the president's office, as the last shot was fired, the report said. The door to Byers' office was locked, and Belt, armed with a bullet hole, saw Gray trying to rise.

Forcing the door, he found Byers on his back, dead, and Gray, several feet away, bleeding. By Gray lay a .32 caliber pistol, and this Belt said he picked up and placed in a drawer in Byers' desk. Then he asked Gray who did the shooting.

"That's obvious," was the muttered reply.

An Illustration of How the People Are Gouged To Upkeep a County.

The people of Georgia generally complain very bitterly about being in most cases they have a right to complain.

But, as has pointed out, over and over again, in the editorial columns of The Constitution and in this free-lance column, they do not complain of real persons and real taxes that oppress them.

Complaining about taxes is a very country's national duty, and in this land of the free and the home of the brave, the collector we Georgia is the great sportsman of that breed in all the world.

We would just naturally complain, through habit, if our taxes were only 2 cents on the $1,000. We would with one accord demand "What do we get for those exorbitant 2 cents?" A Georgian without a tax complaint is like a man without a nose.

What we just naturally complain, through habit, if our taxes were only 2 cents on the $1,000. We would with one accord demand "What do we get for those exorbitant 2 cents?" A Georgian without a tax complaint is like a man without a nose.

Only the People to Blame.

For such conditions with prevail over nearly two-thirds of the state no blame can be put upon any governor or any legislature.

Georgia actually tax-oppresses her people. The state is the worst in the Union and renders them more valuable services for their money—and still the state government is extravagant in its expenditures and needs a thorough economical reorganization.

If the people of a county insist upon retaining an unnecessary and costly county government, and while they are at it, they must stand on the gall. Their complaints of tax burdens can only be laughed at by the people who have sense enough to keep their hands off a rattlesnake.

Special Dispatch to The Atlanta Constitution and the American Newspaper Alliance.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 23.—Four hundred and fifty miles from Hollywood, Sonora, a little mountain town of California, is starting a lucrative business based on the talking picture industry.

In the days of the silent pictures several companies made western films using this little hamlet as a screen location center. It had a brief blooming—the interest of the silent picture industry—and then it faded away. And while this company was still there back came Gary Cooper to make some scenes for "The Texan."

In no time the natives of this little California town saw the company of the silent picture industry. When a story of the west is to be filmed, nothing gives the authentic flavor like a glimpse of the giant Sequoias which are the landmarks of the western rim of America.

A well-organized system of "types" for emergency purposes was created. And directors found that they could get fresh and valuable material more easily than any business which has kept the flavor of the hills than through the casting offices of a colony famous for its types.

The town is within 30 miles of the famous California big trees. When a story of the west is to be filmed, nothing gives the authentic flavor like a glimpse of the giant Sequoias which are the landmarks of the western rim of America.

When a Hollywood company wants to make a picture on location all it has to do is take down a telephone and ring Sonora. In 10 minutes' time it can be informed of what when its company can come in and be housed and fed and exactly what it will cost.

Deserted mining towns which have been left to rot for the last 40 years are unearthed again back in the hills. They are the ideal stage sets for the western talkies of today. They have lived in the hills growing melon and winter storms. They have a genuine antiquity no studio scenery however clever can give.

California's newest industry, gelatin, is giving new life to the ghost towns of California's first industry—gold.

League 'Gold Group' Sees Coin Shortage

GENEVA, Sept. 23.—(AP)—The report of the gold delegation of the League of Nations' financial committee, published today, indicates the probability of a shortage of new gold for monetary purposes by the year 1934.

The gold delegation has been studying all fluctuations of the purchasing power of gold and its work is not yet complete.

The delegation is composed of financial experts of many countries, including George C. Roberts, vice president of the National City Bank of New York.

Memphis Continues War on Loan Sharks

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Ten more indictments were returned today by the Shelby county grand jury against men called "loan sharks" by Attorney General W. T. McEain.

Ten others were indicted last week. McEain charged the 20 operated small loan businesses without state licenses.

Many witnesses, many of them negro laborers, testified they had paid exorbitant rates to money lenders.

Everybody's Business.

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR.

United Fruit Company Head Sees No Reason Why General Business Should Not Continue in Good Volume—Most Business Leaders Say Fear Is "Bogus"

Retarding Business.

"There seems no reason why general business should not continue in good volume, making due allowance for the psychology of the people," says Victor M. Cutter, of Boston, president of the United Fruit Company.

"We'll learn sometime that good hard work is a more reasonable basis for continued prosperity than blind speculation in the stock market or anywhere else."

"Our fund of economic information, or possibly misinformation, is greater than ever before. Whichever it is, there is no question that business men are thinking in broader terms than ever, and with our basis of common sense it is entirely possible that we shall work out of the present situation in a comparatively shorter time than we have out of other depressions where the psychology was about the same as at present."

It is a question how this can be done Mr. Cutter's reply was:

"Intelligent interpretation of the facts concerning any particular industry, together with continued faith in the law of demand and supply and the need for hard work, will settle most of our problems."

Mr. Cutter, 49 years old, honor graduate of Dartmouth in 1903, began his climb to the presidency of the largest fruit company in the world a year later. He has lived in Central America, and is well known in both North and South America.

Besides being president of the United Fruit Company he is president of the Tropical Fruit Company and the Tropical Radio Telegraph Company, and is a director in many others, including the United States Rubber Company and the International General Electric Company.

Nine of every ten business leaders today say fear is the big bugaboo holding back business. The bugaboo has swung back too far. . . . Nothing in the world but fear. . . . When the psychological factor is overcome, business will start ahead. . . . Nothing to be depressed but fear. . . . Fear is gradually being eliminated, and so business is coming ahead.

These are expressions one hears every day.

When I met C. R. Palmer, president of Cluett, Peabody & Co., Inc., on the street, he remarked:

"It is a very interesting thing that is holding back business recovery. There is plenty of money in the country, and if people could overcome the fear they have and start spending normally, business would be all right."

Mr. Palmer hit the point in the business situation when he talked about money. There is plenty of it—but it's hard to get. "You can't laugh off cheap money indefinitely," said Louis Seagrave, president of the United Founders Corporation, discussing business recently.

That's true. Cheap money will eventually do the trick. It is the gasoline that will start the engine going. Everybody has to get on the starter. Who is going to do it?

Thomas F. Wallace, president of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks, doubts that much of the "riotous saving" comment of William Trufant Foster, of the Pollak Foundation for Economic Research, is justified. Mr. Foster said "riotous saving" was the cause of crippled retail sales, dropping purchasing power and prolonged unemployment.

"A very interesting theory, but based on a fallacy," says Mr. Wallace. "The basic structure of business is saving. Business cannot get credit unless it has some cash, and a large part of the cash is furnished by the institutions which collect the savings of thousands and put them into one mobile mass; while Mr. Foster starts with the theory of saving money withdrawing capital from industry."

Mr. Wallace said that if Mr. Foster's view was carried to its logical conclusion, it would really mean that a home going to business from his home ought to change his suit at every block, to increase trade for everybody.

Mr. Wallace believes the right course for the average man today, to assist in an economic revival, is to bank the money not needed for necessities.

When some one suggested that Calvin Coolidge had championed the Foster theory in one of his recent writings, Mr. Wallace observed that Mr. Foster said "riotous saving" could be aggravated by an unwise cautiousness and he urged that people buy necessities so far as they could and save the rest for when they had work that needed to be done."

To this Mr. Wallace heartily agreed.

Letter to Voters.

"To the People of Georgia: In the interest of party harmony, and with the hope of obviating further factional strife and discord, I have addressed a suggestion and request to C. E. Maddox, chairman of the state executive committee, which explains itself. There is underlying this suggestion the sole purpose of party harmony, and the furtherance of election purity. I hope it will be cordially received and agreed to."

"I have noted to General Homer C. Parker a copy of the letter addressed to Chairman Maddox."

"The results of the balloting on September 10 gave me a margin of two county unit votes over the highest candidate for comptroller general, Honorable Homer C. Parker. A decided difference of opinion has arisen over the election in Wilkeson county. That appears to be the primary difference of opinion, and it threatens further discord."

"Every state has had its own vote for General Parker or for me; 44 county unit votes were not accredited to General Parker or to me. In the light of his own claims, General Parker has at best from his own viewpoint, only the same number of county unit votes I have, in which I do not concur with him. Since the adoption of the county unit plan has been made upon the requisite number of county unit votes, until this particular race is reached, I have the higher number of unit votes if Wilkeson county remains in Mr. Bullard's column. Neither General Parker nor myself has, if Wilkeson county is taken from Mr. Bullard. We are tied, it is that done."

It Isn't Proof of Genius To Whistle The Tune Composed by a Genius

By Robert Quillen

Many people, old and young, draw pictures of Andy Gump, little Jeff, Maggie and similar characters. Some of them, encouraged by fond parents or admiring friends, submit their efforts to publishers. And when their work is returned or ignored, they say to their acquaintances: "My drawings are just as good as the other fellows', and deserve as much reward, but a newcomer isn't given a chance."

The world is full of people who can do something well only when somebody else shows them how. Without exception they fail to win the reward to which they feel entitled, and as a rule they attribute their failure to bad luck or the world's unfairness.

They fail, however, because they are imitators. They are capable copyists, but are incapable of creating something new.

The imitator can't hope to win a place among the leaders, for he must wait for a pattern. Without something to copy he is helpless. And though his imitations excel the original, he still must be content as a second-rater for he is by nature and practice a follower.

If you are content to be an imitator, and think the world unfair because it denies you the rewards given to originality, ask yourself how far you could go if you had to blaze the way for the other fellows, and deserve as much reward, but a newcomer isn't given a chance."

The world isn't unfair in its judgments. It finds use for imitations. But it recognizes the fact that men who wait to be shown are second-raters, and quite properly denies them the praise given to originality.

Many men profit by the ideas of others. An idea belongs to the man who creates it, but the man who begins with it is left out of it. It isn't an imitator. He improves work already done, and his improvement is original.

Originality wins the world's prizes. Copyists win small rewards because anybody can copy. When the artist casts a bronze, ordinary mechanics can make cheap replicas.

To imitate is to confess inferiority, and to make a practice of imitation is to make yourself helpless without a master.

Mr. Herbert Porter, Advertising Director,
The Constitution,
Atlanta, Ga.

My dear Mr. Porter:

Knowing how interested you are to get the results of the sales for the first day of our Anniversary Sale, I am very pleased to advise you that we have shown an increase for the day of 12% of the total sales. The amount of the cash sales was a fraction over 7% ahead of last year.

These facts are very encouraging to me and I am sure they must be to you, as well as, everybody in Atlanta. When you take into consideration the fact that the unit price with us this year is considerably less than last year, you can readily see that the public is in a buying mood if they are offered the right kind of merchandise at the proper price.

I also take great pleasure at this time in expressing my appreciation to you and your entire organization for the manner in which you have co-operated with our publicity department in the preparation of our copy, which was no small task. I appreciate the fact that irrespective of how good the story we had to tell the public and how great values we might have had, unless it was presented properly the public could not respond.

Assuring you of our earnest desire to keep up our friendship and co-operation at all times, and with kindest personal regards, I am

Sincerely yours,

The Ancient Mariner—Samuel T. Coleridge

Applied to modern-day business methods, the words of Coleridge's "Ancient Mariner" bring forcefully into play the factors which determine success.

Over a period of years the J. M. High Company has used dominating space in The Atlanta Constitution. Well prepared advertising copy has carried the daily merchandising messages of this old-established Atlanta firm to the largest and most responsive audience it is possible to reach in the entire southeast.

One year ago, with trade conditions at their peak, the 47th Anniversary Sale of the company was announced to the public through a 12-page section in The Atlanta Constitution. The first day of that sale produced the greatest day's volume of business the store had ever enjoyed in all its 47 years' history.

That was last year. This is 1930. "Business is terrible." "Cut expenses." "Everybody's broke." "Might just as well face facts." So said the pessimists. Well, let's face facts!

Last Sunday the J. M. High Company announced its 48th Anniversary

Sale, using the greatest percentage of space for that presentation—another 12-page section—in The Atlanta Constitution. No cutting there! No back-water! Instead, a clearly indicated analysis of actual conditions as they are today.

Let's see what happened. There is no secret about the results. Read Mr. Dorsen's letter. A 12% INCREASE OVER THE RECORD-BREAKING DAY OF LAST YEAR—an increase of 7% in actual cash received. 1930 a bad year? Not for those merchants who use 1930 methods in going after 1930 business. Read again the words of Coleridge's "Ancient Mariner."

There is just as ready a market for good merchandise today as there ever has been—and PEOPLE HAVE THE MONEY TO SPEND when you offer real values!

The Atlanta Constitution affords an open door to such a market—it is reaching people who have money to spend every day—reaching more of them than can be reached through any other daily newspaper in the entire Southeast.

THE CONSTITUTION IS A MEDIUM OF ACTION—USE IT!

Fifty Years of Hardware History--

Chapter I.

In 1880 Mr. George E. King began traveling for a Baltimore metal factory, calling on hardware and house furnishing stores as far West as Nebraska and as far South as Florida. Later he decided to give up such a large territory and work only the eighteen largest towns in Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Florida.

Formerly there were as many house furnishing stores as there were hardware stores. The house furnishing store sold stoves, enamelware, galvanized ware and always in connection was a tin shop, where much of the pieced tinware was made. Now such house furnishing stores have entirely disappeared. Mr. King was the first salesman in the South who ever sold pieced tinware shipped from a distant factory. Shortly after he started calling on the hardware men he realized they were of a high type, and so he decided to go into the hardware business as soon as possible.

Accumulating capital enough to start was a slow and hard process. You will understand this when it is stated that he saved only $280.00 above expenses the first year. The next year he saved $1,000.00, both these amounts being loaned out at eight per cent interest. When his savings amounted to $4,500.00, he decided the time had come to begin his own business. A brother-in-law, who was a lawyer, furnished $4,000.00, and a young man in the hardware business in Forsyth, Georgia, put $1,000.00, making $9,500.00 in all.

Having decided on the best business, the next question was, what was the best city in the world to locate in. Having traveled fifteen states, Mr. King knew the entire South and selected Atlanta.

A radio dramatization of the adventures of "Sandy" and "Lil," the front cover characters of Liberty magazine, will be featured during the new Eskimo Pie broadcasts, to be given its premiere performance over WGST and the Columbia network at 8:45 p. m. this afternoon.

Leslie Thrasher, creator of "Sandy" and "Lil," will be in the studios for the premiere and will introduce to the radio audience the principals of the new radio skit series.

The Palmolive hour has been selected as one of the few programs which will be broadcast from Madison Square Garden during the Radio World's Fair. Palmolive's regular program with its usual abundant variety will be heard over WSB tonight at 7:30, its program being broadcast for this special occasion from the Crystal studio at Madison Square Garden.

Memories of past seasons will be revived when Paul Oliver, tenor, sings "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms" and the appealing ballad, "That Tumble Down Shack in Atholene." Olive Palmer, soprano, will sing as one of her solos, "Cavafina" from the opera "Ernani," and Elizabeth Lennox, contralto, and Elliott Shaw, baritone, have chosen the ever-

Fifty Years of Hardware History--

Chapter I.

In 1880 Mr. George E. King began traveling for a Baltimore metal factory, calling on hardware and house furnishing stores as far West as Nebraska and as far South as Florida. Later he decided to give up such a large territory and work only the eighteen largest towns in Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and Florida.

Formerly there were as many house furnishing stores as there were hardware stores. The house furnishing store sold stoves, enamelware, galvanized ware and always in connection was a tin shop, where much of the pieced tinware was made. Now such house furnishing stores have entirely disappeared. Mr. King was the first salesman in the South who ever sold pieced tinware shipped from a distant factory. Shortly after he started calling on the hardware men he realized they were of a high type, and so he decided to go into the hardware business as soon as possible.

Accumulating capital enough to start was a slow and hard process. You will understand this when it is stated that he saved only $280.00 above expenses the first year. The next year he saved $1,000.00, both these amounts being loaned out at eight per cent interest. When his savings amounted to $4,500.00, he decided the time had come to begin his own business. A brother-in-law, who was a lawyer, furnished $4,000.00, and a young man in the hardware business in Forsyth, Georgia, put $1,000.00, making $9,500.00 in all.

Having decided on the best business, the next question was, what was the best city in the world to locate in. Having traveled fifteen states, Mr. King knew the entire South and selected Atlanta.

GROUP TO REGULATE PRICE LEVEL SOUGHT

Lyle Suggests Municipal Commission as Gasoline Rates Leap Higher.

All major gasoline vending companies of Atlanta Tuesday were demanding and receiving 23 cents a gallon for cheaper grades of gasoline and 26 cents for the high compression product, as Councilman George B. Lyle, of the eleventh ward, suggested that a municipal commission to supervise prices of gasoline, coal, ice and other necessary commodities be established to protect citizens from the possibility of "combines to control prices."

Mr. Lyle announced he will join Councilman Joseph E. Berman, of the fourth ward, in a move to set up a council committee to investigate the rise in the price of gasoline ordered Monday by several of the major companies.

Berman declared he would ask the committee to ascertain whether a "combine to control the price of gasoline exists." His announcement followed an increase of two cents a gallon on the product, which oil company officials declared was caused by increases at refineries.

Hike in the price of gasoline at Memphis was seen in news dispatches from that city telling of a conference of the Standard Oil Company of Louisiana today.

"Just as the state and federal governments regulate utility companies, I think we should supervise the fixing of commodity prices which prevail for citizens of Atlanta," Councilman Lyle said. "As to the gasoline price situation, I think Councilman Berman is exactly right. The companies are all in together to get the prices they want. Whether we can prove it or not is another question, but I will vote for the investigation."

THREE-CENT JUMP EXPECTED IN MEMPHIS.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 23.—(AP)—The Evening Appeal says a three-cent per gallon increase in prices of gasoline sold by the Standard Oil Company of Louisiana is expected by filling station operators here. The paper says it has been informed the increase will be announced tomorrow as part of a market readjustment and stabilization program.

Huge Liquor Haul Effected in Florida

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Federal prohibition agents today seized 800 cases of fancy red liquor and arrested six white men and a negro as the crew attempted to complete landing a cargo from a boat in Ochlocknee bay, Wakulla county. The liquor was valued by the agents at $100,000.

The seven men arrested were placed in the Leon county jail here pending a hearing before United States Commissioner Ray Marsh.

The men gave their names as George Fuller, Leece Wood, Harold Jones, Fred Wilson, Wilton Arnold, Ovan Joiner, white, and Robert Brown, negro.

The agents said they conducted the raid after two truck loads of whisky had been taken from the scene. By following the trucks' tracks 300 yards from the landing to a garage they took possession of the loaded vehicles and found 200 more cases stored in the building, the agents reported.

County authorities said the haul was the largest ever recorded in this section of the state.

"Just as the state and federal governments regulate utility companies, I think we should supervise the fixing of commodity prices which prevail for citizens of Atlanta," Councilman Lyle said. "As to the gasoline price situation, I think Councilman Berman is exactly right. The companies are all in together to get the prices they want. Whether we can prove it or

Fund for Lipton Cup Passes $1,500 Mark

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—(AP)—A silver cup to be presented to Sir Thomas Lipton for his sportsmanship in the America's cup races will be accompanied by a book containing thousands of letters from his admirers.

Sir Thomas Lipton will sail for home Saturday on the Leviathan. The committee plans to send the cup and letters to him later.

"I feel that these letters express a sentiment greater than the symbolism of the cup," Mayor Walker said. "Most of them are warm-hearted and will give Sir Thomas more pleasure than the cup."

The medal, which was designed by Laura Gardin Fraser, wife of James Earl Fraser, will be followed annually by two other medals to be executed by leading American sculptors under the auspices of the society. Mr. Haverty, who is a member of the Society of Medalists, will receive these works of art, turning them over to the museum.

Mrs. Fraser's medal shows on the one side a hunter, his gun leveled above the dog pointing at his feet; and on the other, a grouse perched upon a branch. The balance of line and curve in the medallion and the regard for detail make it a rare work of art. The Society of Medalists, which has been recently organized, permits the sculptor freedom of choice of subject and design in the execution of his work.

Miss Rittenbaum Is Hostess.

Miss Lee Rittenbaum, chairman of Jewish National Fund for the Atlanta chapter of Junior Hadassah, entertained the members of her committee at an informal tea Sunday afternoon and the hostess and Miss Anne Balser explained the significance of this particular fund. The Jewish National Fund dates back to the time when the rehabilitation of Palestine was not an actuality but merely a dream or goal which the Jewish people had little hope of realizing.

The Jewish National Fund makes possible the purchase of lands in Palestine which become the inalienable property of the Jewish people. Plans were formulated and arrangements made to carry out a constructive program for the ensuing year in this particular branch of Hadassah work. From the enthusiasm radiated and co-operation extended by the committee members Miss Rittenbaum and her co-chairman, Mrs. Jina Zinger, who recently returned from Africa, can be assured of a most successful year.

Miss Knight and Mr. Daves Wed at St. Philip's Cathedral

The marriage of Miss Anna Knight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Orme Knight, and Francis Marion Daves, of New York city, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Daves, of Cartersville, Ga., was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at St. Philip's cathedral. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Russell K. Smith in the presence of a gathering of friends and relatives. The church was decorated with palms, ferns and baskets of white gladioli. On the sides of the altar were placed numerous candelabra holding white lighted tapers, which furnished the lighting effect for the wedding tableau.

Musical Program

Preceding the ceremony and during the taking of the nuptial vows, a program of appropriate music was rendered by C. W. Deickman, organist of the Ponce de Leon church and teacher of music at Agnes Scott college. He played "March Pittoresque," "Swedish Wedding March," "Scherzo," by Hoffman; "Romance," by Bonnet, and during the ceremony he softly played Schubert's "Serenade." As a processional he rendered the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin" by Wagner, and the Wedding March from Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream" was played as the recessional.

The ushers, who entered the church first, included Stiles Hopkins and Clinton Hopkins, nephews of the groom; Henry E. Peoples, uncle of the bride, and Judge Claude Pittman, of Cartersville, brother-in-law of the groom. The bride had as her only attendant her sister, Miss Ray Knight, who was becomingly gowned in blue lace and chiffon, with blue hat and shoes to match.

Lovely Bride

The bride entered with her father, by whom she was given in marriage, and they were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Deveraux McGlathery. The bride was lovely in her bridal gown of ivory satin, made princess style, and combined with lace. It was made with long sleeves and her gloves were of white kid. Her veil was of ivory tulle, fashioned cap shape and trimmed with lace and orange blossoms.

Following the marriage Mr. and Mrs. Knight entertained at an informal reception at their home on Moreland avenue, the guests including only a few close friends of the bride and groom, relatives and out-of-town guests. Mrs. Knight was gown in French blue chiffon and her hat was of felt. Mrs. Daves, mother of the groom, was gown in blue chiffon, with hat and shoes of a matching shade of blue.

After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Daves left for a wedding trip, and they will make their home in New York city, where the groom is associated with the architectural firm of Delano & Aldrich.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Daves, of Cartersville, parents of the groom; Mrs. Julia Angier Salley, of New York city; E. A. Angier, of Memphis, Tenn., and Judge and Mrs. Claude Pittman, of Cartersville.

FOLLOW THE CROWDS TO RICH'S!

"Mother says Rich's... and we'll go to Rich's!"

We were browsing around on one of those inclement days last week when a sudden shower sent us scurrying into the nearest shelter... a shop whose crowded windows boldly acclaimed the merits of its school supplies. Insistent drizzle followed drenching downpour... then out of the soft sizz-z-z of the rain came the protesting voice of a colored nurse:

"But Honey, us can't go nowhere in dis cloud-bust. You go an' get pneumonia and yo' mama'll gi' me fits! That's the Gospel truth!"

The mouth of her small charge was one straight, stubborn line.

"I've GOT to have 'em by tomorrow, Lily, or the teacher'll give ME fits... and THAT'S the Gospel truth!"

"Now, Chile, these things here is just like the ones any other place. Jus' exactly. C'mon," she wheedled.

The youthful scholar surveyed the neat array of regulation pencils, tablets and erasers... let his glance idle critically over the trim, strapped satchels, the shining lunch boxes. Lily heaved a sigh of relief. Then he turned and marched to the door.

"No," he said firmly, for all of his seven years, "Mother says always go to Rich's... and we'll go to Rich's!!!"

Second Andree Diary May Reveal Secret

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 23.—(AP)—The secret of the manner in which members of the Andree expedition met their death on White Island probably lies hidden in a document found in the ill-fated explorer's camp. It is known to experts as "Andree's second diary."

Thus far the pages of this diary have proved uninterpretable and they may remain forever expert treatment has been applied.

The first diary of Salomon August Andree told the story of the expedition up to October 1, 1897, leaving untold the way the explorers landed on White Island and shedding no light on to what finally caused the men to perish.

Ruth Elder Is Sued For Getting Married

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Ruth Elder, the aviatrix, is being sued for $150,000 because she prefers married life to a place in the spotlight.

T. H. McArdle, a promoter, instituted action in supreme court today, alleging Miss Elder has broken a contract to work under his tutelage for ten years, beginning in 1927.

Miss Elder married Walter Camp, Jr., last year after several stage, screen and air appearances. The promoter promptly brought suit against Camp for $150,000 but the action was dropped last June.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

COUSIN CHATTERER INTERFERES.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS

Claim all and then take what I can. I've sometimes found a paying plan. —Chatterer the Red Squirrel.

Impy the black Chipmunk and little Mrs. Impy, who was not black, but had a striped coat such as most Chipmunks wear, had been out looking for food supplies. You see, it was their first fall of housekeeping and they were very anxious to have a proper food supply for the coming winter.

Being thrifty folk and coming of a thrifty family, they didn't propose to go hungry if hard work would prevent it.

They had discovered several nut-trees. The nuts were not yet ready to be harvested, but there was promise of a bountiful supply. "We won't have any trouble at all," declared Impy. "When these nuts drop we can fill our storehouses in almost no time. I haven't supposed it would be so easy to get a supply of food for the winter."

"You haven't got it yet," said a sharp voice. "These nuts don't belong to you."

Impy and Mrs. Impy looked around to find Chatterer the Red Squirrel, who is, as you know, their cousin, scowling down at them from the lower branch of a tree near by. "If they aren't ours, whose are they?" demanded Impy.

"Mine," replied Chatterer promptly. "They are all mine."

"Who says so?" cried little Mrs. Impy.

"I say so, and that is enough," replied Chatterer. "These nuts are mine and no one else can have any. So you had better not come over here any more."

Now, Impy and little Mrs. Impy had been out in the Great World long enough to know just what their rights were; but they felt sure that Chatterer was claiming a great deal more than he had any business to. "I don't believe you," said Impy. "I don't believe you have any right to all those nuts."

Chatterer bounced to his feet and started down the tree-trunk head first. "You get out of here, both of you!"

Officers of U. D. C. Feted at Wren's Nest Luncheon Tuesday

One of the most unusual and charming social affairs of the week was the luncheon Tuesday at the Wren's Nest, when the Uncle Remus Memorial Association, with Mrs. A. McD. Wilson, life president, entertained in honor of Mrs. L. B. Bashinski, president general of the U. D. C. Mrs. Warren D. White, president Atlanta chapter, U. D. C., and Mrs. J. J. Harris, president Georgia division, U. D. C.

Mrs. A. McD. Wilson, life president of the Uncle Remus Memorial Association, presided at the function with the grace and elegance so characteristic of the Confederacy.

The house was decorated throughout with a profusion of red and white flowers and Confederate flags. The beautifully appointed dining table had for its centerpiece a mound of red roses and swansonia, with Confederate flags draped over the table, and in every detail the colors of the Confederacy, red and white, were carried out.

Speakers were Mrs. Bashinski, Mrs. J. J. Harris, Mrs. Oscar McKenzie, Mrs. Warren D. White, Mrs. H. G. Hastings, Mrs. Hal Hentz and Mrs. L. G. Hardman, Mrs. L. N. Ragdale, Mrs. Walker Lamar, Macon; Mrs. Oscar McKenzie, Montezuma; Mrs. John A. Ferdie, honorary state president; Mrs. J. Bashinski, Dublin, first vice president; Mrs. L. D. T. Quinby, treasurer; Mrs. Kirby Smith, Anderson, Madison, historian; Mrs. Harry Craig, Sandusville, recording secretary; Mrs. Forrest Kibler, recorder of crosses of service; Mrs. Ada Ramp, Walden, Augusta, state editor; Mrs. Frank Dennis, Eastman, auditor; Mrs. W. Sam Smith, president, Decatur chapter, U. D. C.

Officers and chairmen of the Uncle Remus Memorial Association invited were Mrs. A. McD. Wilson, life president; Mrs. Hal Hentz, Mrs. H. G. Hastings, Mrs. Arthur Hazzard, Mrs. Bevard Montgomery, Mrs. Spencer Atkinson, Mrs. W. C. Lowe, Mrs. R. T. Connolly, Mrs. J. S. Nichols, Mrs. Arthur Hale, Mrs. O. T. Camp, Mrs. M. Herzberg, Mrs. Banks Whiteman, Mrs. Norma Smith, Mrs. L. B. Bashinski, Mrs. Raymond O'Kelly, Mrs. F. H. Mapp, Mrs. Minnie Hale, Mrs. P. D. McFarley, Mrs. Simms, Mrs. S. F. Cruikshank.

The affair will be staged at Formwalt school for four days beginning Monday. The exhibit will be open from 10 o'clock to 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon, and a fee of 10 cents will be charged.

Moor To Direct General Canvass In Chest Appeal

Appeal of Atlanta's societies of human helplessness for support by Atlanta men and women will be presented in the general public canvass.

Selection of Mr. Moor to head the general canvass was announced Tuesday night by the executive committee of the Atlanta Community Chest.

"Mr. Moor, always an eager and effective worker for the cause of humanity in previous Community Chest campaigns, has been promoted to the post that is one of the most difficult in the entire campaign organization," said Milton W. Bell, chairman of the executive committee. "He has accepted the responsibility with an enthusiasm that arouses the confidence that Atlanta cannot fail in this test."

Mr. Moor made it plain that this assurance will become the keynote of the campaign—that Atlanta must not and cannot fail.

"Atlanta cannot afford to be neglectful of its obligations to its unfortunate," he said. "In this year when of all times the need is greater, there must be a greater measure of response to the appeal of the needy and a more convincing proof that Atlanta people recognize the constructive value of social service work."

"The opportunity will be presented to every man and woman in Atlanta to take part in the broad program of service that is contemplated by the Chest and its societies in 1931."

Other details of the organization for the general public canvass and of other phases of the campaign will be announced shortly, the committee said.

MAGRUDER SEES END OF STANDING ARMIES

HATTIESBURG, Miss., Sept. 23. (AP)—Speaking at the dedication of the municipal airport, Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder predicted today that in the course of time aviation would place in the discard large standing armies and great fortifications and that right now the coast artillery forts were useless.

"In my opinion," he said, "aviation will so progress as to eliminate, in course of time, the necessity for large standing armies and great fortifications. In fact, at the present time, I am sure of the opinion that forts along the seaboard of the United States may be dismantled as being of no further use in the national defense. This belief comes directly from my conviction that aviation is even now the greatest single factor in the national defense. It insures our security and will protect the just interests of our great country."

Rear Admiral Magruder recently came into command of the eighth naval district with headquarters in New Orleans. He is known in the navy as an outspoken officer and during the Coolidge administration he was placed on inactive duty for bold expression used in magazine articles while stationed at Philadelphia.

"In no field has the development of aviation had a more startling influence than in warfare," he told the crowd.

"Through its development and the increased power and reliability of planes, the role aviation will play in the next war cannot be exaggerated. Even today military strategists are having to modify and change their strategic conceptions."

"For example, no longer may enemy ships blockade a port of any large country. They would be bombed and destroyed by aircraft. Nor is it possible to conceive of an invasion of the soil of the United States by foreign troops."

"It is doubtful if, owing to aviation, any navy again will build the monster battleship. Aircraft carriers will attain progressively a greater and greater importance in the fleets of the world. It is not difficult to conceive that the future navies may be composed of ships designed solely for the purpose of carrying aircraft. Offensive tactics will be done by the airplane. If this be so, and I think it is, one may envisage that war, in the future, will be decided in the air."

BROWNING SLAYINGS BEFORE GRAND JURY

Indictments by Lowndes Body Are Expected
Today

VALDOSTA, Ga., Sept. 23.—The Lowndes county grand jury, called into special session by Judge W. E. Thomas, of the superior court, spent a busy day investigating numerous cases accumulating since the jury recessed in May. After returning about 15 indictments for various violations of the law, the jury Tuesday afternoon started on its investigation of the murder of W. H. Brownings and wife at their filling station seven miles south of Valdosta on the night of

When the jury recessed at a late hour it was learned that the case was about half completed and that indictments could be expected about noon Wednesday.

of the men held in jail, has confessed that he fired the shot which killed Browning and he says also that his uncle, Allen Westberry, then took the gun and shot Mrs. Browning, who already had been wounded twice.

Homer Padgett, another held in jail, confessed to being implicated in the plot and it was his confession that induced Westberry to make his statement.

Padgett says he was acting as a lookout for the murder party and was left when the men fled after the shooting, this perhaps making it easier to induce him to tell what he knew about the plot.

HUNTER, FAMED ACE, HURT IN AUTO WRECK

SAVANNAH, Ga., Sept. 23.—(P)—Captain Frank O'Driscoll Hunter, of Savannah, crack flyer of the army corps and a famous ace of the A. E. F., is in Walter Reed hospital suffering from severe injuries sustained in an automobile accident Sunday near Manassas, Va., according to a message from Washington received here today. He was returning to Washington from a week-end trip when he lost control of his car which plunged over a 15-foot embankment and overturned twice. It was said at the air headquarters that his injuries are not believed serious.

Captain Hunter had recently visited relatives in Savannah and is under orders to proceed to San Diego for duty at Rockwell field. He was on the list of stunt fliers for the air circus to be held at the army war college in Washington. This assignment he will not be able to meet.

Cards Gain With 19-16 Victory in Wild Game; Robins Are Out

JONES TIES RECORD TO LEAD AMATEUR FIELD

CARDINALS WIN, INCREASE LEAD; ROBINS ARE OUT

St. Louis Adds Half Game to Lead as Second Place Cubs Rest.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23.—(AP) The St. Louis Cardinals again ran wild against the Phillies today, winning their final game, 19 to 16. The victory increased the Cardinals' margin to three games over Chicago and eliminated the Brooklyn Robins, who lost to New York, from the pennant race.

The Cards bombarded four Philadelphia pitchers for a total of 26 hits while the Phillies slammed out 16 blows, including a homer by the bases full by Rensa.

By winning the Cards gained a half game on the idle Chicago Cubs and now are three games ahead of their only remaining rivals with four to play. Brooklyn, by losing to the Giants while St. Louis won, dropped to five games behind the Cards and clear out of the pennant race.

St. Louis scored in the first inning on two hits and a Philly error. Adams singled, Frisch forced him at second, but Thompson threw wild to first and Frisch reached second. Bottomley's single brought Frisch home.

SCORELESS SECOND.

After a scoreless second the Cards smashed over six runs in the third. Rhem started the rally with a single. Adams and Frisch also made base hits, bringing the pitcher home. Adams ran out of the baseline to make the second out. Rensa's wild throw trying to pick Frisch off first allowed the runner to take third. Bottomley walked and Hafey, Watkins and Mancuso followed with singles, each driving in a run and bringing Ace Elliott to the mound. Gilbert's single and Rhem's second of the inning brought in two more tallies.

The Cards brought the score up to 11-0 with four more runs in the fourth, only to have the Phillies equal the rally as Rensa hit a home run with the bases full. Singles by Frisch and Bottomley and Frberg's error brought the first St. Louis run of the inning. This rally ended by Watkins and Mancuso brought in the other three. Fisher went to right field at the start of the last half of the inning.

Singles by Frberg and Hurst and Frisch's tumble of Whitney's grounder filled the sacks for the Philly catcher's four-base clout.

RHEM DRIVEN OUT.

The Phillies drove Rhem from the mound and scored four more runs in the fifth. With two out, Klein's single, coming between walks to Frberg and Hurst, filled the bases. Whitney's single brought in the first two runs and Hurst tallied when Doust made a wild throw to third. Lindsey replaced Rhem and handed out a wild pitch that allowed Whitney to score.

The Cards got three more, making it 14-4, in the sixth. Hafey walked and stole second. Mancuso and Gilbert doubled and Doust hit singled, driving in a run apiece. The Phils failed to rally.

The seventh inning brought the score up to 18-11 in another burst of scoring. Ray Benze went to the mound for Philadelphia and yielded five hits, one a double by Bottomley, for four Cardinals tallies. This rally ended by combining a pair of singles and Klein's double with a burst of wildness by Lindsey to score three times. Three walks and a wild pitch contributed to the tally. Bill Hallahan was called in to retire the last two batters.

Hansen pitched for the Phils in the eighth and shut out the Cards as Adams was caught at, the plate on Frisch's double. Hallahan allowed the Phils only one hit.

The Cards scored their final run in the ninth when Blades led off with a double, reached third on a single, and scored as Gilbert hit into a double play. The Phils, permitted to run the bases at will, scored five runs on as many hits in the final half-inning. Singles by Whitney and O'Doul with Rensa's double in between accounted for the first two tallies. Thompson also doubled, driving in a third run while Klein sent in the last two with a single after Frberg had walked.

Giants Put Out Robins, 8 to 2.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 23.—(AP) The New York Giants eliminated Brooklyn from the 1930 National League pennant race today and drew practically even with the Robins in the struggle for third place as they won the last clash of the season, between the two clubs, 8 to 2. It was Brooklyn's sixth straight defeat and left the Robins five games behind the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals, with only four games to play.

The game was tied until the fifth inning when Dazzy Vance was nicked for four Giant runs after Frazz had dropped Gilbert's throw to second on what appeared to be a certain double play. The Dazzy gave five hits in that frame before Watson Clark relieved him. The Giants continued scoring, tallying twice in the sixth. Jim Elliott finished for the Robins.

Fred Fitzsimmons pitched a steady game for the Giants. He gave only six hits and a pair of homers produced the only Brooklyn runs. Glenn Wright's 22nd four-bagger tied the score at 1-1 just before the Giant storm broke, while Babe Herman counted his 25th in the eighth inning. Lindstrom and Hogan had four-baggers among the Giants' 15 hits. Lindy led the hitting with four blows in five times at bat.

The Giants now are only one point behind the Robins, virtually tied with them for third place. They have two more to play.

Bobby Jones is off today on his quest for the fourth major golf title within a year. Fate has made it so that his greatest test comes at the same club where, 14 years ago, he made his first appearance in a national tournament. It was at the Merion Cricket Club that Bobby Jones, a youngster of 14, stepped onto the golfing stage of the world. In the layout above Bobby Jones is shown at the left as he appears today, the world's greatest golfer. In the center he is shown walking on the Merion course in the Monday's qualifying round. At his left is chunky Tex Bradshaw, one of Bobby's close Atlanta friends. Emery Stratton, with cigar, was playing with Bobby. And at the right is Bobby Jones as he appeared the year he started at Merion. An unknown then, in 1916, the good year 1930 finds him recognized as the greatest golfer the world has ever seen. He has already established a record that no other golfer is expected to reach. He is seeking a record that, as Grantland Rice says, will challenge time itself if he makes it.

CLEMSON

Josh Cody Has Done Wonders With Material On the Hill—Tigers Will Win No Title But They Will Be Tough Foes.

Editor's Note: This is one of a series of articles on Southern Conference football teams written by Ralph McGill after seeing the squad in practice.

By Ralph McGill.

Josh Cody, who is off on his fifth year as head coach of the Clemson Tigers, has done a job of coaching this fall on the hill that is just about as big as Josh himself. And Josh is quite large.

Josh Cody's losses from the 1929 Clemson team included both tackles, both guards, both quarterbacks, the fullback, an All-Southern halfback, a substitute end and a substitute halfback.

This had the effect of wrecking his line and backfield. There is no super material at Clemson. Most of it is inexperienced when it arrives. And yet what has the man Cody done? Nothing, except bob up with a team which looks every bit as good as the one of 1929 which was good enough to win three conference games, all its state games and give Florida a torrid battle.

If anything the 1930 Clemson team will have a bit more power than the one of 1929. It will not win a championship. The material isn't there. But it stacks up as a real football team and one of the best jobs of coaching to be seen in the conference. Clemson uses few sophomores. Cody and his staff of coaches develop men after they report. The "Bohunks," as the scrub team is called at Clemson, produce many football men who make the varsity in their junior and senior years. The Clemson freshmen rarely produce a star for the next year's varsity.

Newspapers in the Carolinas declared that Cody would have little of a Clemson this year, most of it having gone when Padgett, McCarty and the famous "Goat" McMillin graduated last spring.

Backfield Surprises.

In the opening game two juniors, who were just fair substitutes as sophomores, led an attack that scored 25 points against a stout defensive. And scored them in little more than two quarters on a heavy field.

Lionel Harvin, who does not look a bit like Lionel Barrymore, looks like a real fullback. And Macey Welch, a tall young fellow, showed himself to be a real quarterback. No one had considered them as dependable offensive men. Johnny Justus, a senior, and Grady Salley, another last-year man, make up the backfield.

Justus is one of the best men at running the ends that Clemson has had. And when the defense spreads to halt him the other boys can squirm through those holes in the line.

Good Kickers and Passers.

Welch and three substitute backs can kick well. Welch, Justus and Substitute Miller are passers.

All of which gives the Clemson Tigers a well balanced backfield and an attack that is well masked and deceptive.

Clemson returned the 1929 ends in Bob Jones and "Toggy" Woodruff. They are the ideal type ends, tall and powerful. Both catch passes with more than ordinary skill.

Guards and Tackles Untried.

The new material at the tackle and guard positions is untied. Skinny Long is a sophomore guard. Vick Fleming is a substitute from the 1929 team. Reuben Seigel and Mule Yarbrough, junior and senior, respectively, are also reserves from the last year's eleven.

Red Fordham, veteran center, is a capable man at his job. If the new tackles and guards come through the Clemson defense will be about as well balanced as its attack.

Clemson has perhaps the best backfield tacklers in the conference.

GRAPPLERS MEET HERE TONIGHT

Dick Shikat and Joe Komar on Card at Auditorium.

Dick Shikat will meet another man who stands in his pathway to the world's mat title tonight at the auditorium when he steps in the ring with Joe Komar, the Giant Lithuanian.

Komar, weighing 235 pounds and all muscle, worked out in Atlanta Tuesday. He went on the road in the morning and finished with a gymnasium workout in the afternoon. He appeared entirely fit and ready for the big German.

IS CONFIDENT.

"I think I can beat Shikat," said the giant. "I want a match with London myself. Shikat met him and lost and I believe I can do the same thing. I want the mat fans to know that I am no set-up. I haven't wrestled here before, but I'll make some friends Wednesday night. If Shikat will stay in the ring, I'll beat him."

Shikat, who has been wrestling with a force which resembles desperation since he lost the world's title to Jim Londos, is declared by his manager, Joe (Toots) Mondt, to be better than ever.

"I think Shikat would beat London if they meet again. He is even better than he was when he was champion. And, believe me, he is punishing the men he meets."

THE OPENER.

Everything points to one of the most sensational matches that the city has ever seen and some 5,000 mat fans are expected out tonight to see the matches.

Jim McMillin, who appears in the semi-windup with Bill La Gene as his opponent, is one of Atlanta's favorites. He is a real championship contender himself. Mike Chambers, Georgia Tech's trainer, knew McMillin at Illinois and believes that he will one day be champion.

In the opening preliminary, which will begin at 8:15, Mallory Mann, 165 pounds, will meet Joe Ruble, 101 pounds, in a 15-minute match. Tickets are on sale at the Piedmont Hatters and the Candler building soda fountain. There is no increase in prices.

Virginia Van Wie Sets Course Record

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—(AP) Setting a new course record for women, Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, took a long lead in the women's Western Derby field at Glen View Golf Club today. Miss Van Wie carried a 77, four under par, to lead Mrs. Stewart Hanley, of Detroit, who had an 84.

Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, finished the opening round of the 72-hole event, one stroke behind Mrs. Hanley.

Harry Robertson Sobs Over Lack of Reserves

Petrel Coach Sees Need of "Iron Man" Team for Coming Weeks.

By Jack Troy.

From the football camps come reports of certain coaches being in "tough spots." Add the name of Coach Harry Robertson, of Oglethorpe, to that list. The Petrel mentor is sadly lacking in reserve strength.

Willing but untired sophomores are in the majority in this respect, and to increase Robertson's worries, Captain Claud Herrin, regular quarterback, may be on the injured list when the Birds trot out on Sanford field against the Georgia Bulldogs Saturday afternoon.

Experience, balance, speed, power—these are the chief claims to fame of the tentative varsity selected by Coach Robertson. Three untired sophomores have landed temporary places in the lineup—but they are surrounded by veterans who will prevent them from doing the flighty and unreasonable things under fire that unseasoned gridders often accomplish.

Luke Appling, Cy Bell, Jeff Burford and Hoke Bell, heroes all of last year's Petrel victory over Georgia, will be conspicuously absent when the Black and Gold of Oglethorpe mixes with the Red and Black of Georgia, but the Petrel supporters are counting on Dapper Myers and Frank Anderson, Jr., backs; Spud Kratz or Andy Morrow, centers, and John Patrick, Whaley, Julian Stovall or Mud-dick Adams, guards, to make them forget the valiant boys who have faded from view but not mind.

About this insistent matter of reserve strength, no football eleven is stronger than its reserves, "his said, and only once in a decade or so does a team pop up such as that boasted by Brown University several years ago. Brown's eleven "iron men" played every game, but they were exceptional men.

Coach Robertson isn't laboring under the hallucination that he has a bunch of "iron men" and that injuries over substitutions will be occasioned during the course of a very strenuous season calling for four inter-sectional games after Georgia. He is well aware of the fact that replacements will play a very necessary part in the event of injuries to any of the regulars.

At least the Petrels will have nothing to hold back or save against Georgia, the following game coming in two weeks. And that, mates, is the brightest spot of the schedule. The Petrels are in a position to give their all against the Bulldogs, with ample time for recovery before tackling Manhattan College, in New York, on October 11.

After that, however, no reserves are included in the slate, and reserves will be called on to share a large part of the burden.

Take the varsity backfield. With Captain Claud Herrin out, if he is, Johnny Woodard likely will fill his place. Woodard is a senior, very fast and shifty in the open field. He hasn't got the football instinct Herrin has, but he is experienced. Young Frank Anderson and Lefty Syper, halfbacks, are juniors and lettermen. Dapper Myers, fullback, also is a junior and a letterman. The last named were three of the five sophomores to be awarded monograms last year.

But the second-team backfield contains only one junior, Dan Boone, the rest, Ray Walker, Sam Baker and

GOLF MEET SET BY ARCHITECTS

Tourney Will Be Played Friday at Capital City.

Golfing architects and architectural draftsmen of the city are putting the finishing touches on their strokes in preparation for the eighth annual golf tournament, Friday on the Capital City Country Club course. The tournament will be sponsored by the Georgia chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

The tournament will be an 18-hole affair and handicaps will apply. Every entry must have at least three attested scorecards to compete for the championship trophy in order that a handicap may be secured.

There will be three trophies given away to the winners. All practicing architects or members of any of the A. I. A. chapters are eligible to compete for the southeastern architects' golf cup. A large cup will be given to the fourth place player. The cup will be given to the winner. The southeastern architectural draftsmen will be given for the best draftsman's score.

Should an Atlanta golfer win the southeastern cup, he will not be eligible for the Atlanta architect cup, in which case the second best score will receive the cup. A large cup will be given to the fourth place player. The cup will be given to the winner. The southeastern architectural draftsmen will be given for the best draftsman's score.

There will be no entry fee and every draftsman in the state is eligible to participate.

J. Warren Armistead is general chairman of the tournament committee and is assisted by Flippen, D. Burge, William J. J. Chase, Robert B. Logan, M. C. Kollock, F. Graham Williams, all of Atlanta, and James D. Bercham, of Asheville, N. C.

In addition to the championship golf events, there will be special events, including a driving contest, "birdies" for the player making the most birdies and a putting contest.

Dempsey Is Hurt By Careless Driver

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 23.—(AP) Jack Dempsey, ex-king champion, was injured here today by an automobile while returning from a reception given in his honor at the Roosevelt hotel.

His friends took Dempsey to a hospital where several stitches were taken in a wound in his arm.

"It won't bother me," he said. "It's nothing at all."

He was crossing at Bourbon and Bienville streets when an automobile swerved around the corner with its door open and caught Dempsey's arm between the door and the side of the car.

He referred a prize fight here last night and left for Alexandria, La., to officiate at another fight tonight.

BIG GUNS FALL AS GEORGIAN WINS LOW SCORE

Day One of Greatest Struggles, Grantland Rice Says.

By Grantland Rice.

MERION CRICKET CLUB, ARDMORE, Pa., Sept. 23.—(NANA)—There are 32 golfers out of 148 starters in the race for the national amateur golf crown who will march to the first tee Wednesday morning and out of this list only eight will be left as an autumn sunset falls across Merion at the edge of night.

The man who leads this parade is fairly well known in golf circles for his name is Bobby Jones. The Georgian seemed to be leading yesterday and today but in spite of that he turned in a 142 for the 36 holes which ties the qualifying record Ducky Duckran made here some years ago. Jones had the record in his hand with two pars left for 140, but a long wait of thirty minutes on the seventeenth tee seemed to take the snap from his play and he needed a 4 on this 3 hole.

With the record still waiting on the final hole he drove nearly 300 yards, played a blind mashie-nublick that he thought was stone dead, only to find the ball over the green where he took a 5.

All in all this last qualifying day was one of the most hectic, exciting, dramatic and nerve wrecking in history. There were stories to relate that belong in the record book. But before coming to these stories, one should mention the fact that the old guard proved its place. George Von Elm was just back of Bobby Jones with 143 and Doc Williams wasn't far away at 145. Fay Coleman, of California, scored a 69 to tie William and George Dunlap and Sidney Noyes, two younger stars, were next at 147.

His SIXTH TIME. This is the sixth time Bobby Jones has either won or tied for the medal round, and it is a fair enough indication that he is near the peak of his game.

The story of this qualifying test goes beyond those safely in. Worst of all, Jimmy Johnston, the defending champion, after a brilliant battle against the Georgian and a lack of touch around the putting greens, failed to qualify by just one stroke. This happened 20 years ago when Bob Gardner, who won the 1909, failed to qualify in 1910 at Brookline. It has never happened since. That was the last time a defending champion has failed to qualify in a final round. The St. Paul star more than he could face. His 78 today might have been a 68 with better luck around the greens.

And then there was Don Moe, the Walker cup star of Portland, who had a 74 on Monday and started with a killing 8 on Tuesday that led to a 45 out, an 83 and finally a 157. Here again one of the stars of the field faded.

BIG GUNS FALL.

Tolley didn't qualify. Neither did Max Marston. There were many champions who failed to scrape their way into the select circle of the day's most desperate finishes of the day belonged to Jess Sweetser and Watts Gunn. Both looked to be out. But Sweetser cracked par the last four holes with a 2 at the hard 17th to get in the play-off and Watts Gunn came back in 33, fighting like a wild man to get a 4 on the same hole. Gunn had to get a 4 on the 18th hole after being buried in a trap, but he managed to get a 4 on the 18th hole. This explosion shot him a fine putt. This shows how they had to battle to get a chance at match play on Wednesday.

It was one of the hardest struggles ever known in a national amateur tournament, a struggle to the final putt where about 60 per cent of the field looked worn and drawn as they came to the last tee, facing possible disaster. Champions cracked par the last four holes with a 2 at the hard 17th to get in the play-off and Watts Gunn came back in 33, fighting like a wild man to get a 4 on the same hole. Gunn had to get a 4 on the 18th hole after being buried in a trap, but he managed to get a 4 on the 18th hole. This explosion shot him a fine putt. This shows how they had to battle to get a chance at match play on Wednesday.

The big gallery of the day, 100,000 strong, filled the stands, followed Jones. He told me tonight he had had two of the most restful rounds of his career.

Watts Gunn Plays For Place Today

BY ED. DANFORTH

MERION COUNTRY CLUB, Sept. 23.—Watts Gunn went to bed tonight not knowing whether he is in or out of the States amateur championship.

Watts blasted his way into the melodramatic play-off by playing a "see-saw" shot out of a trap at the 18th green dead to the cup for a par 4, a 75 and 155. That score placed him with ten others in the twilight group.

The 155 group were sent off in groups from the first tee and medal scores were to count until three had been eliminated. Findlay had a 3, Seaver and Somerville 4's and were given three places. Watts and five others scored 5's. Chick Evans, former champion, and Leonard Marlin took 6's and were eliminated.

By that time it was pitch dark and the U. S. G. A. ordered Watts and the other five golfers to report on the first tee at 8:50 o'clock tomorrow morning to play for five places.

One of them will be out of luck and Watts is determined he will not be the goat.

Connie Mack Is Worried as Date for World's Series Nears

ONE MORE STAR HURLER NEEDED FOR ATHLETICS

Earnshaw Worries Veteran Pilot—Predicts Hard Series.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23.—(AP) Connie Mack is a bit worried about the Philadelphia Athletics' chances in the world's series.

He has some misgivings about his pitching and he said he was particularly worried about George Earnshaw.

"If I had one more pitcher, I mean one more dependable pitcher," Mack said today, "I think I'd be all right. I'm particularly worried about Earnshaw. George hasn't looked like himself in the last few starts, and in addition he hasn't recovered from being struck on the knee with a batted ball."

"This series is going to be a mighty tough one for us to win. St. Louis must have a great ball club. They were 12 games behind on August 31, that shows how good they are. The Cardinals have a lot of pitchers and plenty of good batters. Another thing, the fact they've been traveling will send them into the series at the very peak of their form."

The veteran pilot said the Athletics had reached their peak on the western trip of the season and that they had not looked as good since.

"Our team," he added, "is a peculiar team. I never expected we would win the championship during the first half of the season. We didn't look like a pennant winner until after July 4. We started going in St. Louis and reached our best form of the year on that road trip. In fact, it gave us the pennant. I will say, however, that since then our boys have been consistent. They've been able to do what they've had to when ever the occasion arose."

Mack and his Athletics planned to visit the Phillies park this afternoon for a "close-up" of the Cardinals.

Heavier Team Seen For Thomasville 11

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Sept. 23.—(AP)—More than 40 candidates are training here every afternoon under Coach James K. Harper for places on the Thomasville High school football team this fall.

A number of veterans are back, but the new material is making prominent bids for varsity berths.

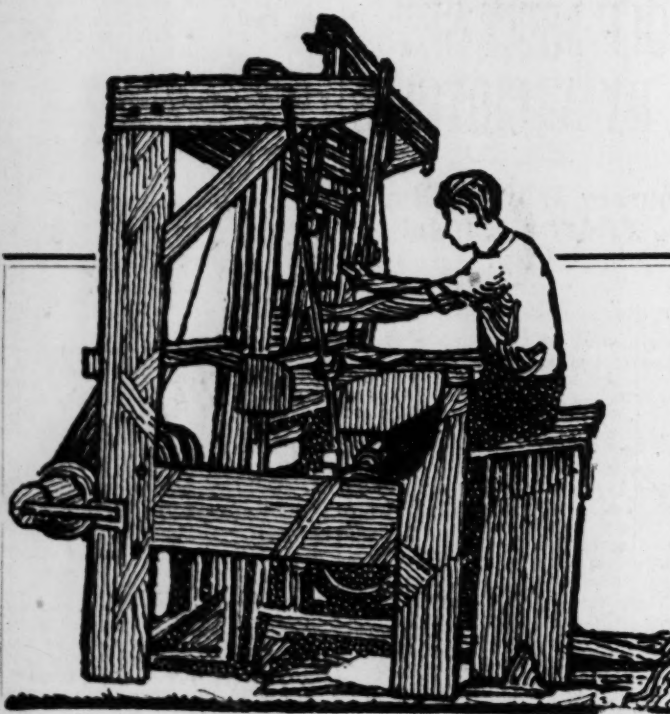

The team this year is expected to be heavier and better in every department than the squad which represented Thomasville last year.

More Seats Added To Cardinal Park

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 23.—(AP)—A corps of carpenters started work today constructing 1,500 additional seats at Sportsman's Park to accommodate world series spectators if the Cardinals win the series.

The Cardinals are leading the Chicago Cubs by two games and a half, win the National league pennant.

Sportsman's Park is built to seat 34,500, and with standing room approximately 40,000 can be accommodated, so the additional seats will insure room for about 42,000 for the series.

Public Is "Fed Up" On Sharkey, Kirksey

Nobody Excited Over His Bout With Campolo Thursday Night.

By George Kirksey
United News Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—(UN)—Jack Sharkey is fit and ready to fight Vittorio Campolo, the leaning tower of Buenos Aires, in a 15-round heavyweight bout at Yankee stadium Thursday night, but nobody seems interested in that.

Madison Square Garden hoped for a while this week that this mismatch might be called off on the ground that Sharkey wasn't in shape to fight, but two New York state athletic commission physicians gave him a thorough examination today and couldn't find anything wrong with the Bostonian except that he talked too much.

Five days ago Sharkey had a slight gastro-intestinal disturbance brought on by something he ate, but he has fully recovered from that ailment, it was revealed when Doctors Joseph S. Baldwin and Joseph M. Sheridan examined him.

"There is nothing to indicate that Sharkey is not in 100 per cent physical condition," the physicians reported. "We could find no defects. His blood pressure is normal and his heart action good. He is fit and ready to fight."

VERY SAD NEWS.

This was all very sad news to Madison Square Garden which has guaranteed Sharkey $100,000 for his appearance against Campolo, and from indications today it appeared that the match would do well to draw that much money.

The match never should have been made in the first place. Sharkey has worn out his welcome around this region, and Campolo has been begging for work ever since little Johnny Risko showed him up as a big, awkward tramp in two bouts last winter. The South American's plight is exposed by his willingness to fight Sharkey for $7,500, his guarantee win, loss or draw.

PUBLIC HAS ENOUGH.

The public has had about enough of Sharkey, and would like to see him definitely eliminated from the heavyweight picture. Campolo, however, doesn't seem to be capable of riding the heavyweight division of its greatest nuisance, and we are quite likely to have to put up with another edition of the Sharkey-Stribling waltz at Miami this winter. The present plan is to match the winner with Stribling to determine Max Schmeling's opponent in a title bout next June.

Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's manager, maneuvered his man into the $100,000 shot with Campolo by threatening to have the Bostonian fight Primo Carnera in Chicago for Mike Malloy, a small time promoter who has achieved some success with Carnera matches. The bluff worked and Buckley got his $100,000 guarantee, and a big, clumsy opponent just to Sharkey's liking in the bargain.

GOB THE FAVORITE.

Sharkey continues to rate a 2-1-2 to 1 favorite, and the odds may quite likely go higher before the fight. Sharkey explains the way to beat these big fellows is "hit 'em and grab 'em or spin 'em and they can't get out of their own way."

The advance sale today barely exceeded $60,000, and the fight will have to draw $150,000 for the Garden to get an even break, which seems doubtful, unless there is quite a brisk demand for seats tomorrow and the day of the bout.

The addition is to be made in front of the stands on both the left and right field foul lines.

Darlington won the southern prep title two years ago and the boys have their eyes on another Dixie crown this year.

The Darlington Tigers open their suicide card against Boys' High on Spiller field in Atlanta, September 27. On successive week-ends throughout the season the Tigers play Lee High, of Macon; Morgan school, of Tennessee; Castle Heights, of Tennessee; McCallie school, of Tennessee; Tennessee Military institute at Sweetwater; Asheville at Asheville, N. C.; Riverside at Gainesville, and Alabama Military institute at Rome.

The Tigers were greatly weakened by the graduation of Marion Talley, fullback and captain, and Bob Sharpe, end, together with 10 other veterans. Frank Rogers, although weighing but 145 pounds, is Scott's best guard. Phil Jones, a blond streak from West Point, is the sole monogram wearer in the Purple.

A squad of 20 candidates representing six southern states and California are out for the varsity. Son Sammons, former Mercer star, is assisting Scott, who was formerly a star halfback at Auburn.

State-Clemson Go To Be Gala Affair

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 23.—Charlotte sports enthusiasts and promoters are rapidly rallying around the N. C. State College-Clemson College football game here on October 11 with the one idea of making the event the outstanding inter-College grid clash.

The most recent addition to the gala occasion is a second round boxing tournament which will terminate with either Add Warren being recognized champion or a new leader taking his place.

Big Sid Terris, widely heralded as the south's biggest fighter, meets off Carroll, of Asheville, and Biloxi, Miss., in the main attraction on the evening of October 10. The event will be staged in the mammoth Charlotte armory-auditorium built for the Confederate Veterans' reunion here in 1929. This boxing emporium is said to be the Madison Square Garden of the south.

The boxing match will lead up to the Wolfpack-Tiger game on Saturday.

Bachman Dislikes Lighted Practices

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Night football practice last night by the Florida football squad convinced Coach Charlie Bachman that he will do only daylight practicing this fall.

The Gators have no night engagements and things were not satisfactory last evening, the coach said.

Frank Clark, center, returned from a ten-day stay in a Jacksonville hospital. He may or may not be able to play this fall.

DUNLAP STEPS TO LEAD MATES IN SCRIMMAGE

Jackets Face and Stop Gray Devils in Game-cock Plays.

By Ralph McGill.

Captain Earl Dunlap's running with that football was the feature of a scrimmage at the Rose Bowl Tuesday afternoon as the boys sweated through a muggy afternoon of work.

They had a look at the South Carolina plays, as staged by Mack Tharpe's Gray Devils, and they played the devil with them. This did not mean much as the Gray Devils have had very little time to work.

Captain Dunlap was running with more power Tuesday than at any time in his career. He was using some deception with it, cutting back through the secondary with an ease that was quite new for him.

This will be quite a load of grief for the opponents of the Jackets this fall. If Captain Dunlap learns to lug that ball around he will be very obnoxious to his foes. They have an idea now that the Tech captain is a good defensive man, an excellent player, but not much threat on the offense.

It would be no surprise at all if he were to become one of the really dependable offensive threats of the year. He has got a lot of extra power from some place.

Doug Graydon, the Arkansas Traveler, is another who seems to have reached condition. He has shaken off a lot of the rawness that characterized his work early in the practice.

NOT SO HOT.

The Jacket scrimmage, taken as a whole, was not so hot because the weather was. It was steaming out in the Rose Bowl. The boys were too hot to do much except shed those pounds.

There were two varsity outfits scrimmaging and how they were mixed!

The team which scrimmaged against the South Carolina plays was made up of Tom Jones and Ed Herriett at ends; Tom Harrison and Fred Holt at tackles; Jim Brooke and Clint Ezell at guards and Howard Nebbett at center. Dunlap was at quarter with Sugar Cain at full back and Doug Graydon and Pat Barron at the half-backs.

ALL BUT ONE.

They stopped the South Carolina plays except one pass that was voted for a touchdown from about the 10-yard line. The same pass failed on other attempts.

The second varsity scrimmage outfit was composed of Shag Williams and Casey Jones at ends; Frank Speer and Vance Maree at tackles; Bull Millians and Hudson Edwards, guards, and Ike Farmer, center. Colin Gray, quarterback with Bob Strickland and Bud Richie at half-backs. Howard Oltz was at full back.

Coach W. A. Alexander made it very plain that he was not training some "shock troops" with which to start the South Carolina game one week from Saturday.

The Jackets will scrimmage the freshmen on Saturday, and will play the Blue Devils for today with scrimmage on the bill.

Mack Will Visit "Bonesetter" Reese.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Mayor Bob Neyland, head coach of the University of Tennessee, announced this afternoon that Gene McEver, star halfback, will visit a specialist at Youngstown, Ohio, for treatment of a knee which has threatened to keep him out of action this season.

When McEver's knee was injured again during practice Monday, Coach Neyland said McEver probably was through with football for this year. The decision to have McEver treated, Neyland said, was made in the hope that he can be saved to this year's team.

Gordon Gridiron Prospects Good

BARNESVILLE, Ga., Sept. 23.—Coach Cecil, of Gordon College, has high hopes for his football prospects this year. He has a bunch of fast big men, and it will be a big job for the able mentor to make his choice for the so-called first string. In the line are several familiar names—Garvin and Godfrey, ends, were regulars last season. Sims and Dasher, tackles, were also regulars. So was big Joe Dowda, center, who returned with renewed determination.

First-year prospects, including Robertson and Brooks, husky guards; Thompson, tackle; Beevis, center, and Riviere and Everitt, ends, are also good.

In the backfield all except two are new men. Pug Bryan, captain and stellar guard of last season, has been shifted to fullback role, while Dobbis, the speed demon of last year, is also back.

Rountree, Williams, Wilkes and Howard are candidates for the half-back posts, while Casen and Bryan have alternated at calling signals. Vestel and Hitchcock, at full, are showing aptitude.

Expectation is running high in Barnesville and when the first whistle blows next Friday for the opening game with Brewton-Parker Institute, a good Gordon team will take the field.

Tech Team Loses Center Candidate

C. D. Burgess, promising center candidate on the varsity squad, withdrew from Georgia Tech Tuesday, according to announcement Tuesday afternoon.

Burgess is to have been discouraged over some scholastic work and withdrew. He was not one of the first string men, but was considered to be a real line prospect.

BRONSON BOOSTS TEXAS RANGER

Foe of Griffiths Here Friday Expected To Become Heavy Menace.

One of the outstanding young heavyweights of this era, in the opinion of Ray Bronson, former welterweight champion of the world, is Texas Ranger, the 100-pound boy who meets John Griffith Friday night in the main event at the Atlanta theater. Bronson, always a keen student of boxing even in the days since he left the fight game as an active business, feels that he has picked up a star in the Ranger and he believes further, in his letters to Jay Jarvis, matchmaker for the Atlanta Theater Boxing Club, that his protégé not only will box convincingly but that he will be a menace to Young Stribling and other heavyweight lights of the day.

"Ranger is a good, conscientious fighter," writes Bronson, "and I think he can take Griffith, all right. He has had 70-odd fights and won more than half of them by knock-out. He has a punch and he is a willing, capable fighter in addition."

Jarvis, though venturing forth with heavyweights for the first time, is certain that they will prove a hit. Heavyweights throughout the land, he argues, are giving the public better exhibitions of the sport than the light boys; and he is looking to Texas Ranger and John Griffith to afford Atlanta better entertainment, even than either of the previous welterweight cards offered at the Atlanta.

"Atlantans like good, slam-bang fights," he said, "with a knockout finish, and I'm confident that either Griffith or the Ranger will land a haymaker before the finish is reached. The preliminaries will be good and strong and an early knockout in the main event will not detract from the card at all."

Moultrie Gridders Hold Daily Session

MOULTRIE, Ga., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Hard hit by a state association rule barring five-year men from high school football teams, the Moultrie Packers are studying football fundamentals under Coach Dodd, Phillips and his assistant, Phil Von Veller, and preparing for a season that includes games with some of the strongest teams in south Georgia.

Forty-four boys are attempting practice sessions daily. Included among the first to practice are seven guards, four centers and fifteen backfield men.

The schedule calls for games with Pelham, Fitzgerald, Tifton, Bainbridge, Albany, Quitman, Adel, Valdosta and Thomasville.

LEAFS DEFEAT SPINNERS 3 TO 1, TO NEAR TITLE

Mackey Allows Three Hits as Mates Play Great Ball.

SELMA, Ala., Sept. 23.—(AP)—The Selma Cloverleafs advanced to within one game of the Class B championship by displaying the punch which carried them to the top in the South-eastern league in their 3-to-1 victory over the Greenville Spinners, first place winners of the South Atlantic league, here today.

The Leafs played brilliantly behind Lefty Mackey, who allowed but three hits in winning the third game of the series. The standing tonight stood three games to one in favor of Selma with fans of the central Alabama metropolis preparing to crown their favorites in the event of a victory tomorrow.

Selma's scores were the result of systematic and timely hitting, their first run coming in the fourth with the remaining pair scored in the next frame. The Leafs garnered 10 hits off Anderson.

Eddie Johnston, Selma outfielder, executed the most daring play of the game in stealing home in the fifth inning. Longnecker, Radcliffe and Andrus starred afield behind Mackey, each contributing sensational stops, Radcliffe handling 16 chances perfectly at first base.

Hanover Bertha Sets New Record

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 23.—(AP) Success of the Hanover stable today at the trots when Hanover's Bertha not only won the $14,000 Kentucky futurity for three-year-old trotters but lowered the stake record to 2:00.

This mile was the fastest mile ever trotted in a regularly programmed race. The second heat in 2:01.4 was also faster than any previous mile ever trotted in the race. By this mile Hanover's Bertha became the first 2:00 three-year-old filly. Legality, the champion half-mile track three-year-old trotter, was second, finishing second in one heat and third in the other.

By Ralph McGill.

The boys at the hill seem imbued with plenty of the old spirit which makes a man turn loose all he has in a tackle. Even the substitute backs tackle with a viciousness that is remarkable.

Tigers Have Difficult Schedule.

Clemson has the most difficult schedule ever attempted. They have already won an opening game from one of the stronger state teams. They meet Wolford, another state foe, and those state games are serious affairs in the Carolinas, and then get their first conference foe, North Carolina State.

Newberry offers an intermission and the Clemson Tigers then jump headlong into strife that will be very hot indeed.

South Carolina, the annual classic; Tennessee, V. M. I., Florida and Furman follow in the order named. The four conference games will find the Clemson eleven bringing forth its extra reservoir of power if it is to survive.

May Enter Vol Game Undefeated.

If there are no untoward breaks the Tennessee game should find the Tigers undefeated. They will give the Vols a great battle. A victory would be a tremendous upset and is hardly expected. The Tigers should win from V. M. I. They outplayed Florida last season, losing by a single touchdown. The Gators will be favorites this fall, but Clemson should go through with not more than two defeats.

The hill is an ideal spot for football players so far as condition is concerned. The best college food in the world is offered daily in the big mess hall. And military regulars have all students in their quarters at 9 o'clock.

Some day when sufficient material happens along Clemson is going to win a conference championship. They get better and better on the hill.

Bobby Jones Strokes Way To Qualifying Medal With 142 Card

JIM JOHNSTON, 1929 CHAMPION, IS ELIMINATED

To Front on Second

lower scores. It was the second time in the history of the tournament that the champion had failed to qualify. Then developed one of the most exciting denouements in the history of the event. There were three more than 32 with a score of 155 or better and the 11 other six scores had to play off immediately for eight places. It was dusk when the score sheet showed that the officials immediately called the 11 men to the first tee and started them in groups. They were to be eliminated by medal score, hole by hole. Phillips Finlay, of New York, got a birdie 3 with a foot putt and won a 6. Charles Seaver, of California, and C. Ross Summerville, of Canada, had par 4's and won places. And a note of regret was heard when Jimmy Johnston, amateur and open champion in 1930, was eliminated with a 6 along with Leonard Martin, of New York.

By the time all had finished playing the first hole light about the grounds had been turned on and automobiles passing along the road shot their beams across the fairway. The elimination by playing the 2nd hole was impossible. The six who made 5's were ordered by the U. S. G. A. to report early tomorrow morning to play for five places. They will play until one is definitely eliminated if it takes all day. In the parings their identities are expressed in that universal surname "bye." It is the first time in many years, if ever, that any of the "bye" boys have made the championship flight in a national amateur. A suggestion from a front reporter that the six survivors be allowed to play it off later in the evening on a miniature course downtown was met with frowns by officials. The big wig were in no mood for flippancy. It was had enough to have to delay supper until 8 o'clock, not to mention having five uncouth byes in the parings.

With Bobby Jones setting the medal pace in his bid for the big fourth crown and the long suspense as late scores came in and caused the traffic jam at the bottom of the bracket, the qualifying round of 34th championship never will be forgotten by those in the center of its roaring action.

Many Stars Fall.
Former champions and lesser stars passed out under the stern resistance of par today. In addition to Jimmy Johnston, their perennial champion of 1929, and Chick Evans, who had been here for two weeks practicing for a big bid, others of note failed to qualify. Among them were Mrs. Marston, ex-champion; Robert McCarty, trans-Mississippi champion; George Hottel, five times Texas champion; and Lawrence Moller, intercollegiate runner-up.

Meanwhile Sweetser, Gunn and McCarthy, as previously mentioned, are still uncertain of a place. It was a bad day for what race track men would call the handicappers' choices. Of the first 10 seeded players, three failed and one is uncertain. And out of the second 10 four also ran and a fifth is uncertain. It was, you might say, a bad day for the favorites—all except Gallant Fox Jones, Jamestown Von Elm, and Man of War Voight.

Bobby is put in the fourth quarter of the draw with Johnny Goodman, the lad who beat him in the last round last year as a possible opponent in the quarter-finals Thursday.

In the third quarter of the draw and therefore a possible semi-final opponent is none other than George Von Elm, who admits he is making his last bid for the amateur title. George Voight, generally reckoned the strongest contender next to Jones, is in the second quarter and therefore cannot meet Bobby until the finals. The powerful Dr. Oscar E. Willing from the Pacific slope, dominates the first quarter. All in all, our Mr. Jones fared very well in the bracketing and is more interestingly placed in that he stands a chance of meeting Goodman, Von Elm and Voight in a succession in the three 36-hole rounds. Those matches would be perhaps as great a test as Bobby ever faced in a national amateur.

The rapid-fire events of Wednesday with two 18-hole matches will cut the field to eight men. It will be easier to follow then, to say the least.

Mongrel Mashie-Niblick Travels Incognito To Lift Bob Out of Trouble

MERION CRICKET CLUB, ARDMORE, Pa., Sept. 23.—(NANA)—Bobby Jones made his record-tying score of 142 to qualify for the amateur championship on the wings of high-flying pitch shots sped homeward by a mongrel mashie-niblick that has been half-soiled and heeled.

You've heard, of course, about little Miss "Calamity Jane, II," King Robert's pet putter, and about "Jeannie Deans," his battered old driver with the split shaft. But how about the mashie-niblick?

It's club about a name, just one of the many well-worn, interesting implements of golfing warfare Jones carries about in his heavily stocked bag.

No one ever before has paid much attention to it, unless it be Bob himself.

But that stepchild of a mashie-niblick spoke right out loud for itself today when Jones used it to make an OLD FOLLOWER.

A lean, graying gentleman who always may be found in the wake of the champion during a round knows a thing or two about the club. He is Thomas B. Paine, Atlanta sportsman, who has followed Bob's fortunes ever since the great Georgian was knee deep in a putter.

Mr. Paine was asked about that mashie-niblick when it began to click off one of its hottest shots.

"Just an old mongrel club," he replied. "Bob's very fond of it."

WHAT A CLUB!
Examination of the stick proved it to be an egg-shaped thing made heavier through folding of additional iron on the sole of the clubhead.

All notations as to the name of its maker have been obliterated. Since the club had the head was forged by Tom Stewart, British clubmaker.

Mayhap after his gratifying experience with the club, Bobby will give it a name. Possibly "Plain Jane," or something like that. It may be plain, but it certainly can execute fancy shots.

to four pairs jammed in front of them made progress agonizingly slow.

CONVENTIONAL HOLE.
Bobby played the 6th conventionally with a drive approach and 2 putts.

His effort for a birdie hung on the edge of the cup. The same story was repeated on No. 1 for a par 4.

Bob's drive at No. 8 soared 300 yards and rolled to the very brink of a trap guarding the 355-yard green.

Here again his putt for a birdie 3 just refused to fall.

His high tee shot to the short No. 9 green stopped six feet from the pin and Bobby studied it long and tried mightily to sink it but it curled up on the brink and he had to take a par 3 for 36.

It was an aggravating nine holes the triple-champion played. Not only was progress made at horse and buggy pace but putts from 6 to 10 feet failed him when he might have had birdies. And he had mis-hit two tee shots.

The gallery that banked the rolling No. 10 fairway numbered at least 10,000 as Bobby, after waiting for two pairs of qualifiers to move on, drove beautifully to his favorite spot to open up the green. He tried a pitch and run shot and the ball stopped on the green, 60 feet short of the cup. From this distance he took 3 putts, his first effort against putting perfection. A five-foot-ten-inch putt for par and he was one over perfect figures again.

At this black hole, the 11th, Bobby, as yesterday, pulled his tee shot into the rough.

INTO THE CROWD.
The ball dropped unexpectedly into the crowd but hit no one. Again Bob tried boldly for the green and this time was short and in a trap. He chipped out six feet from the cup—a grand little shot—and this time rolled it in for a par 4. That evening up for his previous three-putt green, he played No. 12 perfectly in 4. Likewise the dinky 125-yard 13th in par 3.

The traffic congestion continued. Bob hit a rip-roaring ball from the tee low and into a stiff wind that had just sprung up. His approach was hole high and three yards to the left. And down went his putt for a birdie after so many like it had declined to die.

CLOSE TO RECORD.
Standing on the 15th tee Bobby needed to finish in par for 70 and a record in the qualifying round of the national amateur. He blasted a long low drive into the wind, and his second shot 30 feet from the pin. But this approach putt, up, broke and faded away five feet to the right. The side-hill chance coming back and had to accept a 5, one over par.

Thus for the second time in one round Bobby had taken three putts to a green, a rare thing for him.

Bob, patiently tired and worn with the delays, went over to the 16th tee and hit a prodigious drive that carried him almost to the brow of the old quarry, 300 yards. He laid his approach within 20 feet and got down in two for a par 4.

LONGEST WAIT.
Then on the 17th tee came the longest wait of all. Fully 25 minutes spent while four pairs played out ahead of him. They were slow and inept. One man, a low handicap player in his club, laid his ball on the turf for the 215-yard shot to the green and flicked the ball at right angles into the crowd. A distance of two yards. He had to play his second shot from the side of the tee.

It was a shot worthy of the newspaper golf tournament and provoked the first laugh in three hours from the congregation.

Finally Bobby arose from where he had been sitting and, cramped and stiff, hit one into a trap at the left from the hole. He chipped out 25 feet from the hole, two putts in getting down for a 4 that put him two over par. But he still had par for a qualifying record.

He hit the longest drive of all on No. 18. Counting roll and all it was 325 yards from the tee. He used a mashie niblick for his second shot and much to his surprise found the ball a bit over the green in short grass. He chipped back 8 feet from the cup and the putt for the record missed by half an inch. He took an awkward 5 for 73, three over par.

That, with his 69 yesterday, gave him the medal score of 142. That was the same figure that D. Clarke Corkran made here in 1924 to set a record and was equaled by Bobby at Minkapda in 1924.

One less putt and it would have been just another distinction for the man Jones.

SENATORS NOSED OUT.
HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 23.—(AP)—A team of Eastern League all-stars edged out a 9-to-8 decision over the Washington American baseball club in a benefit game here today.

The game was called in the eighth inning to allow the Senators to catch a train.

teer. He was out today in 36, taking everything in stride. His first slip came both tenth, where he hit a great tee shot that left him only 40 yards from the pin. He chipped on, 20 feet short, was four feet short on his putt and needed a 5.

WAS NOT KEPT UP.
He had one or two careless holes of this type but he was hitting his shots up to the Jones standard. If he had been kept up he might have cracked 70 again without any trouble, but he evidently figured he would need all his concentration for those two 38-hole matches Wednesday, the hardest job he has to face this week.

There are too many left who can't either any one, and among them are Johnny Goodman, Lawson Little and George Dunlap.

They are young and keen, they are hitting the ball, and they are full of confidence. These are the boys to take, especially in an 18-hole match where they might hand anyone a 70 to shoot at.

The field that finished was about an even division between the younger stars and the veterans. But you can see the damage that time will do. In the play-off Tuesday night there were 32 who had made 69 or better at Brookline in 1928 and who won the British crown in 1926, with Chick Evans, a former open and amateur champion. There was Watts Gunn who won the first round in 1928. There was Ross Somerville, the Canadian star; Maurice McCarthy, the metropolitan champion, and Eddie Driggs.

EXCITING PLAY-OFFS.
There were 32 who had made 69 or better for the 32 places by 6:40 in the afternoon with a few stragglers left. This meant one of the most exciting play-offs in golf history, and only those who have been in such a play-off after sundown sets in can know the strain.

It was significant that Bobby Jones and George Von Elm, rated as two of the greatest amateurs, should finish 1, 2 in a field that carried so many upsets. Jones and Von Elm were hitting their shots in championship fashion, and so was Doc Willing, the Pacific coast veteran, who is back with his best game.

Leading the field today Bobby Jones must have thought many times of his first match over this course, 14 years ago, when he was the youngest player ever entered in a championship. He has doubled his years since then and now at the head of the medal count he will be face to face with his final tests at match play that are to tell whether or not he will win his fourth and last stand for 1930.

BOB'S USUAL TASK.
Bob had to work under the usual handicap of a big gallery and long delays on many tees. Others had the same handicap, but most of the players were not faced with galloping hosts who blotted out the fairways and surrounded the green so densely that 80 per cent of the watching throng had to guess at the result.

The play-off around the black edge of night was one of the most dramatic episodes since 1913, tied at Garden City back in 1913.

The weary Jerry Travers won his fourth crown. Travers was in that play-off, but he came through at match play.

There were six who tied for last place at 155 and by the time the field finished it was close to night. Chick Evans and Martin had 6's, so they dropped out. Finlay had a 6, 8, Seaver and Somerville had 4's, so they were safely in. Jess Sweetser had a great drive, long and straight, hit the cup for a 3 and then missed the next one in the dark.

There were only three safely in, Seaver and Finlay and Somerville, and they were six to play off Wednesday morning when the dew is silver. They include Sweetser, Watts Gunn and McCarthy.

All in all the show is steaming up even beyond expectations.

PETREL COACH
LACKS RESERVES

John Putno, being sophomore. Other possible backfield reserves are Dave Threlle, and Billy James, Guillard and Rains, sophomores.

Coach Robertson is slightly better fixed, from a standpoint of experience, in reserve forward wall strength. If he has to substitute for Parker Bryant or Goldy Goldsmith, the ends, he has Charley McKissick, a senior, who played a great game against Tech at fullback two years ago. Both Bryant and Goldsmith are juniors who have had a year of varsity competition. Sam Jones Whitley and Jack Moore, other ends, are sophomores.

Al Church is serving his final year at tackle, and, barring injuries, should enjoy his greatest season. His running mate is Dan Keene, a 200-pound sophomore, who, although untested, seems a great prospect. Reserve tackles are Kid Golden, a big senior, and Willie Belle Robinson, a sophomore, and replacements are Julian Stovall, a junior; Muddy Adams, a senior, and Whaley, a junior.

It is indicated that the center position will be entrusted to Andy Morrow, a capable sophomore. Spud Kratz, a senior, will be in reserve.

Good Wins Pennant
As Johnstown Boss

Wilbur Good, former Cracker baseball manager, has won another baseball pennant, having just piloted the Johnstown team in the Middle Atlantic league to a title. Good returned to the Johnstown club as manager, after having broken into professional baseball 26 years ago with the same club.

He managed the Crackers in 1929, and in 1925 while with the Crackers he led the Southern league in hitting. Before coming to the Crackers he was manager of the Macon team in the South Atlantic league.

Miniature Golfers Fight Blue Laws

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—(AP)—Standing belligerently on a ten-foot fairway surrounded by mouse-sized sand traps and water hazards as big as a baby's bath, Tom Thumb today began singing "Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight."

The newly-incorporated National Association of Golf Course Owners announced "was going on the warpath against blue laws, invoked to restrict the playing time on miniature golf courses."

Joseph Kamp, of Yonkers, president of the association, said ex- and Sunday closing of the courses by municipalities would be combated energetically and expressed the opinion the industry was due more consideration than it was getting.

Interest Mounts
In Fort Mac Card

With Pomey already in town and completing his training and Cardwell expected to detrain early today to taper off in his work, interest in the fight card in which the two are to be headliners at Fort McPherson Thursday night is running high.

Both fighters have appeared in Atlanta before; both are hard and well known, and both have let it be known that the battle Thursday will be up to their usual standard.

THE GUMPS—SAY IT WITH DIAMONDS

The MURDER at the VICARAGE
BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

INSTALLMENT I

A BOTHERSOME PARISHIONER.

It is difficult to know quite where to begin this story, but I have fixed my choice on a certain Wednesday at luncheon at the vicarage. The conversation, though in the main irrelevant to the matter in hand, yet contained one or two suggestive incidents which influenced later developments.

I had just finished carving some boiled beef (remarkably tough, by the way), and on resuming my seat I remarked, in a spirit most unbecoming to my cloth, that anyone who must deride Colonel Protheroe would be doing the world at large a service.

My young nephew, Dennis, said instantly: "That'll be remembered against you when the old boy is found bathed in blood, Mary! Will give evidence, won't you, Mary? And describe how you brandished the carving knife in a vindictive manner."

Mary, who is in service at the vicarage as a stepping stone to better things and higher wages, merely said, in a loud, businesslike voice, "Greens," and thrust a cracked dish at him in a truculent manner.

My wife said in a sympathetic voice: "Has he been very trying?" I did not reply at once, for Mary, setting the greens on the table with a bang, proceeded to thrust a dish of singularly unpalatable and unpleasant dumplings under my nose. I said, "No, thank you," and she deposited the dish with a clatter on the table and left the room.

I was a bit of a shock to my wife when she said, "I am such a shocking housekeeper," and my wife with a tinge of genuine regret in her voice.

I was inclined to agree with her. My wife's name is Griselda—a highly suitable name for a person's wife. But there the suitability ends. She is not in the least meek.

"I have always been of the opinion that a clergyman should be unmarried. Why I should have urged Griselda to marry me at the end of 24 hours' acquaintance is a mystery to me. She is nearly 20 years younger than myself. She is most distractingly pretty and quite incapable of taking anything seriously. She is incompetent in every way and extremely trying to live with. She treats the parish as a kind of huge joke arranged for her amusement. I am more than ever convinced that celibacy is desirable for the clergy. I have frequently hinted as much to Griselda, but she has only laughed.

"My dear," I said, "If you would only exercise a little care—"

"Tell me more about Colonel Protheroe," Griselda interrupted. "Pompous old fellow, isn't he?"

"No wonder his first wife ran away from him."

"I don't see what else she could do," said my wife.

"Griselda," I said sharply, "I will not have you speaking in that way."

"Darling," said my wife affectionately, "Tell me about him. What was the trouble? Was it Mr. Hawes? Hawes is our new curate. He has been with us just over three weeks. He has high church views. Colonel Protheroe is a great opposer of ritual in any form."

"Not this time. He did touch on it in passing. No, the whole trouble arose out of Mrs. Price Ridley's wretched poem."

Mrs. Price Ridley is a devout member of my congregation. Attending early service on the anniversary of her son's death, she put a round note into the offering bag. Later, reading the amount of the collection posted up, she was pained to observe that one ten shilling note was the highest item mentioned.

She complained to me about it, and I pointed out, very reasonably, that she must have made a mistake. My words only seemed to incense her. She said that things had a very odd look and that she was surprised I didn't think so also. And she flounced away and, I gather, took her troubles to Colonel Protheroe. Protheroe is the kind of man who enjoys making a fuss on every conceivable occasion. He made a fuss.

"Well, I suppose he must have some fun," said my wife, with the air of trying to sum up the position impartially. "Both his wife and his daughter are fed to the teeth with him. I suppose it makes him happy to feel important somewhere."

"He needn't be offensive about it," I said with some heat. "He wants to go over all the church accounts—in case of defalcations—that was the word he used. Defalcations! Does he suspect me of embezzling the church funds?"

"Nobody would suspect you of anything, darling," said Griselda. "You're so transparently above suspicion that really it would be a marvelous opportunity. I wish you'd embezzle the S. P. G. funds."

I would have reproved her for that sentiment, but Mary entered at that moment with a partially cooked rice pudding.

"Protheroe's coming over tonight evening and we're going over the accounts together," I said. "I must finish preparing my talk for the C. E. M. S. today. What are you doing this afternoon, Griselda?"

"My duty," said Griselda. "My duty as the vicar's wife. Tea and scandal at four-thirty."

"Who is coming?"

Griselda ticked them off on her fingers.

"Mrs. Price Ridley, Miss Hartnell, and that terrible Miss Marple."

"I rather like Miss Marple," I said. "She has, at least, a sense of humor."

"She's the worst cat in the village," said Griselda. "And she always knows every single thing that happens—and draws the worst inferences from it."

"Well, don't expect me in for tea, Griselda," said Dennis.

"Beast!" said Griselda.

Dennis beat a prudent retreat and Griselda and I went together into my study.

"I wonder who we shall have for tea," said Griselda, seating herself on my writing table. "Dr. Stone and Miss Cram, I suppose, and perhaps Mrs. Lestrangle. By the way, I called on her yesterday, but she was out. It's so mysterious, isn't it, her arriving like this and taking a house down here, and hardly ever going outside it?"

"Makes one think of detective stories. I believe Dr. Haydock knows something about her."

"You read too many detective stories," Griselda said. "I observed mildly. 'What about you?' she retorted. 'I was looking everywhere for 'The Stain on the Stairs' the other day when you were in here writing a sermon. And as last I came in to ask you if you'd seen it anywhere, and what did I find?'"

"I picked it up at random. A chance sentence caught my eye and—"

"I know those chance sentences," said Griselda. She quoted impressively: "And when a secret detective thing happened—Griselda rose, crossed the room and kissed her elderly husband affectionately."

"She suited the action to the word. 'Is that a very curious thing?' I inquired."

"Of course it is," said Griselda. "Do you realize, Len, that I might have married a cabinet minister, a baronet, a rich company promoter, three subalterns and a n'er-do-well with attractive manners, and that instead I chose you? Didn't it astonish you very much?"

"At the time it did," I replied. "I have often wondered why you did it."

"It made me feel so powerful," she murmured. "The others thought me simply wonderful and, of course, it would have been very nice for them to have me. But I'm everything you most disapprove of and yet you couldn't withstand me? My vanity couldn't hold out against that. It's so much better to be a secret and delightful sin to anybody than to be a feather in their cap. I make you uncomfortable and stir you up the wrong way the whole time and yet you adore me madly. You do adore me madly, don't you?"

"Naturally, I am very fond of you, my dear."

"Oh! Len, you adore me. Do you remember that day when I stayed up in town and sent you a wire you never got, because the postmistress's sister was having twins and she forgot to send it around? The state you got into and you telephoned Scotland Yard and made the most frightful fuss?"

"There are things one hates being reminded of. I had really been strangely foolish on the occasion in question," I said.

CATHOLIC HOSTS AWAIT MASS MEETING TODAY

Crowds at Eucharistic Congress Expected To Reach 50,000.

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Hundreds of Catholic bishops, missionaries, priests and thousands of laymen who have come to Omaha for the sixth national eucharistic congress tonight awaited the huge mass meeting to be held tomorrow night in the Creighton University football stadium.

An attendance of 50,000 persons is expected and arrangements have been made to care for and accommodate fully that number of spectators. The demonstration will be sent over the air on the Columbia network starting at 8 p. m., central standard time.

The ceremonies will start promptly at 7 p. m. with the processional march, an event that is expected to rival anything ever seen in this city. The radio broadcast will be heard at the address of George Cardinal Mundelein, of Chicago, who will be followed on the speakers' stand by Judge Martin T. Stanton, of New York.

Following the addresses, the greatest spectacle of the entire congress will take place. This will be the repeating of the holy name pledge by the audience. All lights will be turned out and the stadium will be illuminated by the light of candles held aloft by the audience as it repeats the pledge after the Rev. Michael J. Rippe, of New York city.

Today's program ended tonight with a holy hour of adoration for clergy at the Omaha cathedral and every hour of adoration at every Omaha Catholic church for the laity.

Discovered Body Not That of Crater

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—(AP)—The body recovered from the upper bay today is not that of the missing pilot, said Justice Joseph P. Crater, who has been sought since August 6, police said today.

First description from Staten Island said there were no teeth and that one of the fingers was mutilated, answering exactly the distinguishing marks of the missing pilot.

Police who examined the body said there were several teeth and that the finger apparently had been mutilated by some accident after it was in the water.

The body was found this morning near Fort Wadsworth, Staten Island, by a soldier stationed at the fort. Physicians said the body had evidently lain on the shore for about a day and had been in the water for not more than ten days. No clue to its identity was found.

Burning Cotton Held Poor Relief Measure

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 23.—(AP)—Burning cotton by farm relief sympathizers as a method of sending up the price is being held off by the state's arson code, State Fire Marshal John L. Carter has ruled.

Carter requested the prosecuting attorney at Seattle to investigate the burning of a bale of cotton by R. V. Powell, merchant of Beebe, as a means of taking cotton off the market in an attempt to send up the price.

Such act, Carter held, is punishable by from one to ten years imprisonment.

Powell's proposal to "all those who can afford to burn a bale" of cotton brought a protest from Charles G. Henry at Memphis, general manager of the Mid-South Cotton Growers' Cooperative, who said the plan was characterized by the plan as ridiculous.

Labor and money is already in our cotton and the only chance now to get the value out of it is to hold it off the market and reduce next year's acreage. Three million bales would be worth $150,000,000, and the destruction of this much property on top of our already great losses is unthinkable.

Fact Finders Plan Choices for Office

Three candidates nominated for the office of county commissioner in the primaries last March were re-nominated at a meeting of the "fact-finding commission" held at the Atlanta Theater Monday night.

Candidates to oppose in the general election the nominees, Paul S. Etheridge, Dr. W. S. Gilbert and Walter C. Hendrix, were named by the commission at another mass meeting Monday night, it was said.

Attorney Robert P. McFarly, acting chairman of the fact finders, stated in his address that it was the commission's duty to find out who was known whom the commission would nominate but added that he himself could not vote.

In calling for a motion that candidates should be placed in opposition to the incumbents, Mr. McFarly said: "If you feel that we should nominate someone to run against the ring in November, let me hear a motion."

When the motion was made, a rising vote asked for almost every person in the house, approximately 1,000, stood up.

'Collegiate Beer Parlor' Is Raided

An alleged "collegiate" speakeasy, located near Georgia Tech, 485 Spring street, yielded 200 bottles of home brew and complete facilities for beer-making in a raid staged Tuesday afternoon by City Detective J. A. Allen and Eugene Head. A negro attendant was arrested in the raid.

New Headstone Set For Paul Jones' Kin

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., Sept. 23.—(AP)—On the 151st anniversary of the gallant fight of the Bonhomme Richard with the British fleet off the coast of England, John Paul Jones' tribute to his brave son, William Paul, a quiet little boy of Fredericksburg, was observed today.

In historic St. George's churchyard, where rest the remains of Colonel John Dandridge, father-in-law of George Washington, a granite stone was dedicated, marking the place where John Paul Jones in 1774 set a headstone over the grave of his brother. The old headstone is set in the new.

The new stone was unveiled today by Mrs. Jacqueline Smith, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. Mason Smith, of Fredericksburg, a granddaughter of John Dandridge and the twelfth in line of descent of the Indian princess, Pocahontas.

The story of the devotion of the father of the American navy to his humble brother, William Paul, was

TARZAN AND THE LOST EMPIRE No. 63

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Appius Appius turned to leave the cell, but he stopped suddenly at the gate. "It is too late," he whispered. "Look! The faint gleams of a torch cut the gloom of the corridor. They come!" he whispered. "Make haste!" But instead Appius Appius stopped behind the door and drew his Spanish sword.

A man wrapped in a long dark cloak halted before the barred door, and holding his torch above his head, peered within. "What is your errand?" demanded Praclarus. "I come from Caesar," said the man, drawing his sword. "Make your peace with the gods, Maximus Praclarus, for you are about to die!"

There was a cold smile upon his lips as he stepped across the threshold, for Caesar had chosen a born killer for the execution, a man who rejoiced in his work. The smile was still on his lips as the sword of Appius Appius crashed through his helmet to his brain. The man fell dead, the torch still held in his left hand.

"Now go," whispered Praclarus to Appius. "We have the keys. You have saved our lives and given us the gods protect you." Appius Appius cautiously disappeared, Praclarus fitted the keys to their manacles and both he and Tarzan stood erect, freed at last from their hated chains but still in a guarded dungeon.
